Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Short canyon and that a priori seems simple but with spring flows can be problematic. It is a beautiful alpine torrent with great views of the Ordiceto ravine.
If we have 4×4 we can climb to its base.

Hydrology:
Difíciles

Access: (machine translated)
We have to go to Parzán, for this we arrive at Ainsa and take the A138 towards France. After passing Bielsa we arrive at Parzán and shortly after passing the pk 84 we see the sign "Urdiceto lake".
We take this forest track that crosses the river Barrosa. We park in the esplanade next to the power station.
If we take a tall car or 4×4 we will continue along the track until almost the reservoir of the hydroelectric plant and park in the last sharp right turn before the reservoir.

Approach: (machine translated)
If we have parked below we will have to climb the entire track.
Just before the dam, on the left, we will see a rocky area where we can overcome the wall that we have on that side. Once over it, turn left towards the east to the head of the ravine, which will be obvious to us.

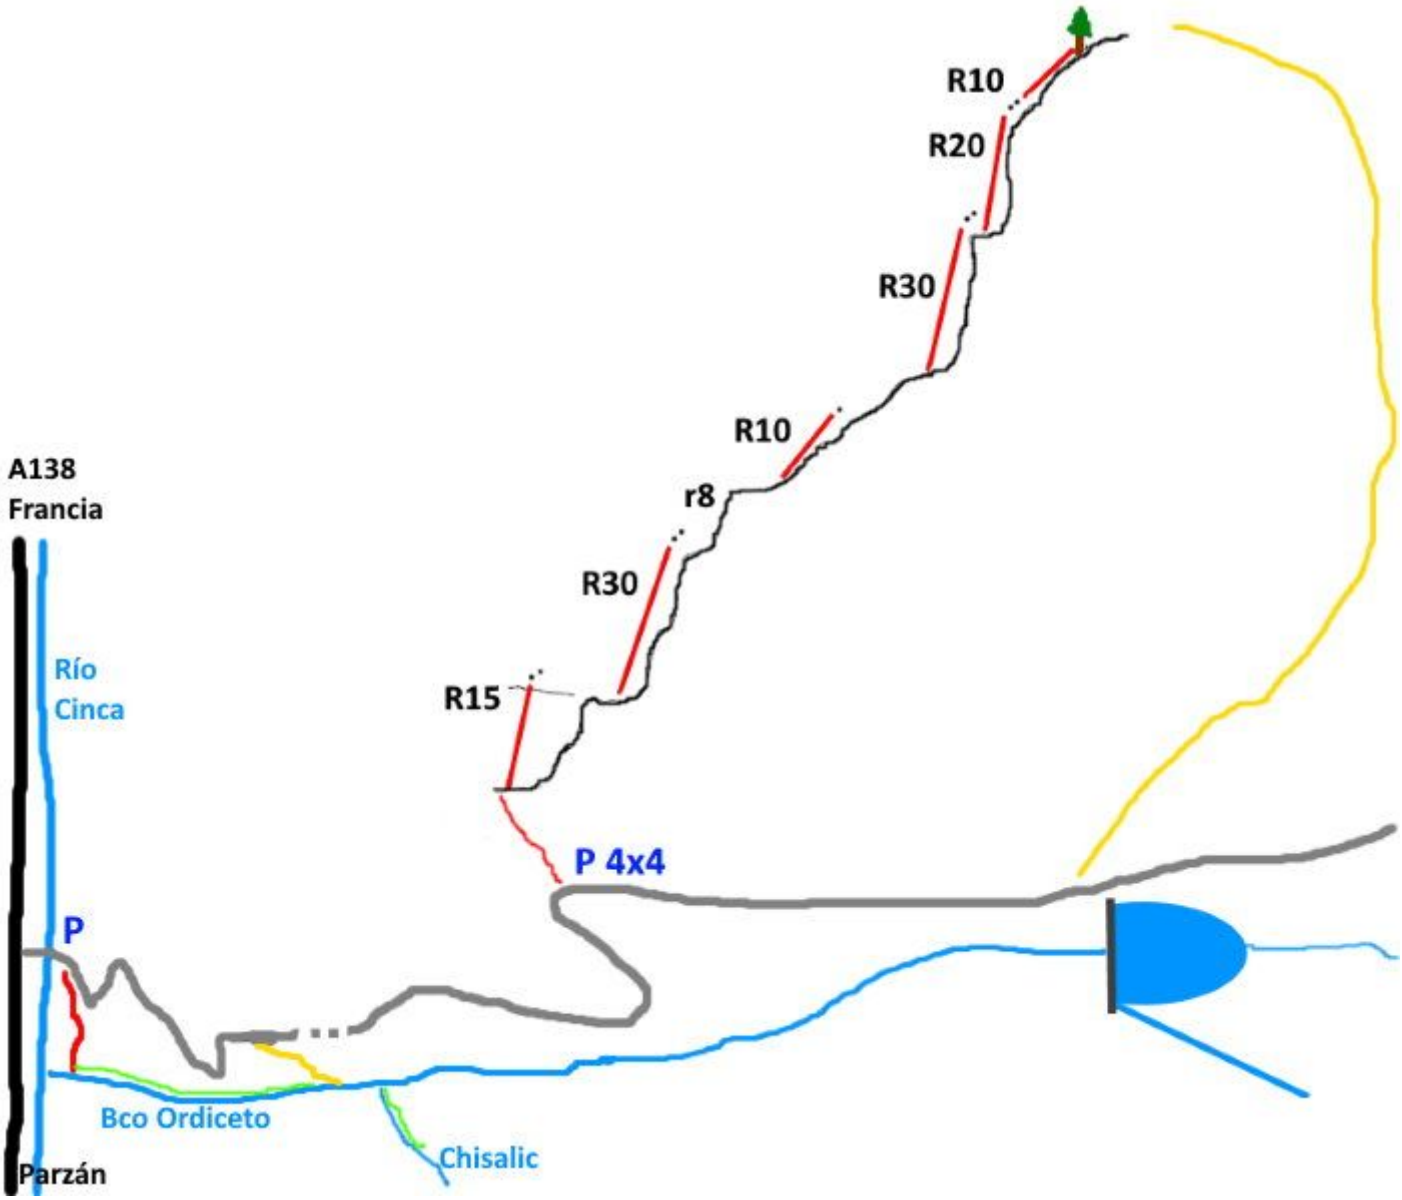

Tour: (machine translated)
Alpine descent, with very cold water and good views. We will have a first vertical, then a less vertical stretch and the final part with another vertical.

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we will exit to the left to the track, just at the curve where we park.
