Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Sport canyon, aesthetically very interesting, technical and open, which will allow us to avoid unnecessary and dangerous overflows. Due to the fact that its flow is not regulated, it can be very dangerous during the thawing season.
Recently re-equipped, many of them by the asset. Here is a review of the old equipment

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Several along the entire length of the ravine.

Access: (machine translated)
We reach Ribes de Freser on the N260, cross it and continue to Queralbs. Before arriving, sharp bend to the left and road in front of the Daió power station. We park at the power station

Approach: (machine translated)
Along the path that goes up to the Coma de Vaca refuge. Well marked path that goes up to the refuge, the bridge that is crossed to change from the right bank to the left is the starting point.

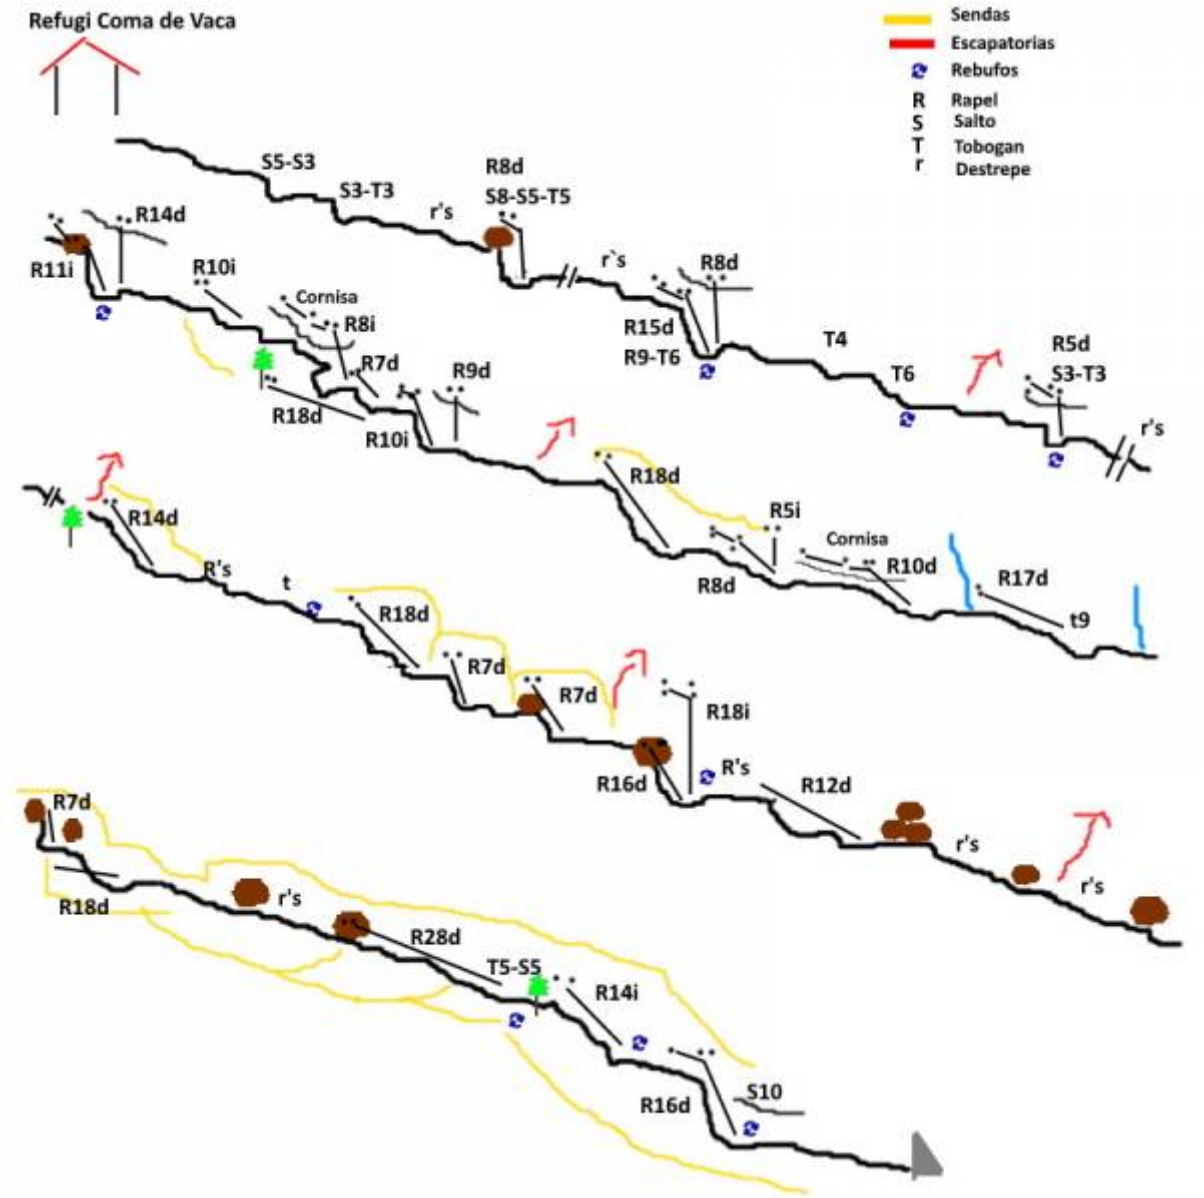

Tour: (machine translated)
Long descent full of jumps, jumps and slides. Rappels outside the asset. It has been re-equipped to be able to make them by the asset. Beware of overhangs and water movements.
It is a very open canyon. Some rappels can be climbed or dodged on the sides and on trails.

Return: (machine translated)
After the dam, we go out on the road uphill. You just have to retrace it
