Summary: (machine translated)
Located at the headwaters of the Sorrosal River, under the watchful eye of the Tendeñera, near the refuge of the Planas de Abozo, just where Sarriesas and Fuebas meet is where the Sorrosal River gets its name. It is a relatively simple canyon perfect to combine with the other two in the area and except in thaw it does not present any problem.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Several, the canyon is not too closed either.

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in Linás de Broto, by the N260 from Sabiñánigo, passing through Biescas, or from Ainsa passing through Fiscal.
Just at the exit of Linás we have the bridge over the Sorrosal river and next to it an esplanade to park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Access to the Abozo, Fuebas and Sarriesas bcos.
By the path that starts in the esplanade and goes up to the refuge of Planas de Soaso.
Approach to Abozo, Fuebas and Sarriesas bcos.
We will ascend until almost the refuge, after crossing the bridge on the river Fuebas we will take the track that ascends to the refuge and in the following closed curve to left we will go of front without losing height to take the head of the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
Easy descent, except in thaw.

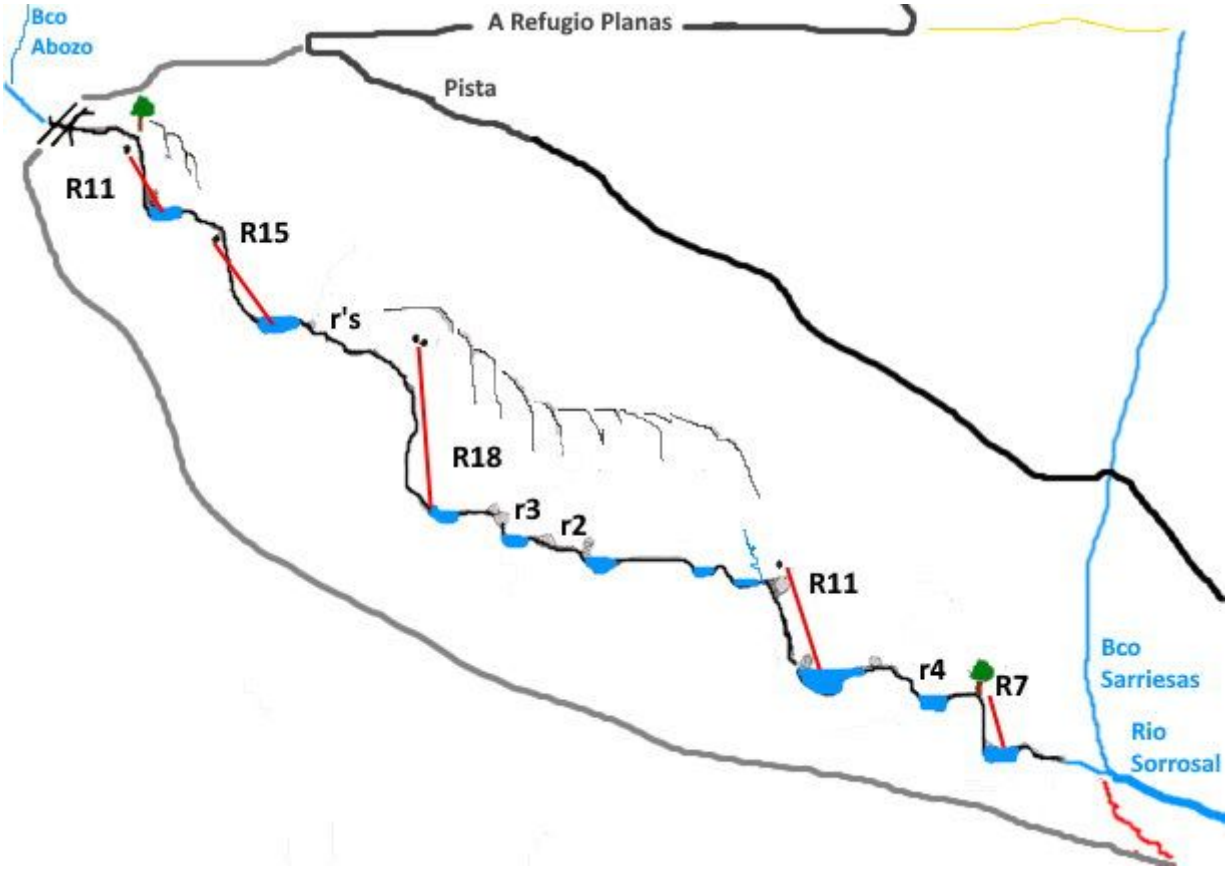

Return: (machine translated)
At the junction with As Fuebas we will turn right in search of the access path.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 42.6550 -0.1660
