Summary: (machine translated)
Entertaining descent for the environment in which we are, if we really want to do a sporting activity is better to choose Althagneta. Long access, long route, high flows at certain times of the year...

Hydrology:
No

Access: (machine translated)
Via the Col de la Piedr de Saint Martin, when you reach Pierre St Martin take the D113 towards Sainte-Engrâce. Continue a few kilometers to the parking lot of Kakoueta.
If you have two cars, continue to "La caserne" and take the road on the left going up to Athoro. Just follow the signs for the ravines.

Approach: (machine translated)
One car, we leave the parking of Gorges de Kakouetta and go up the GR10 (white and red marks) towards Althagneta, cross the bridge and follow the path until it crosses again with the GR10, we will follow it until the bridge over the Kakouetta.
With two cars it is shorter, through the access to Althagneta and from there the same as with only one car.

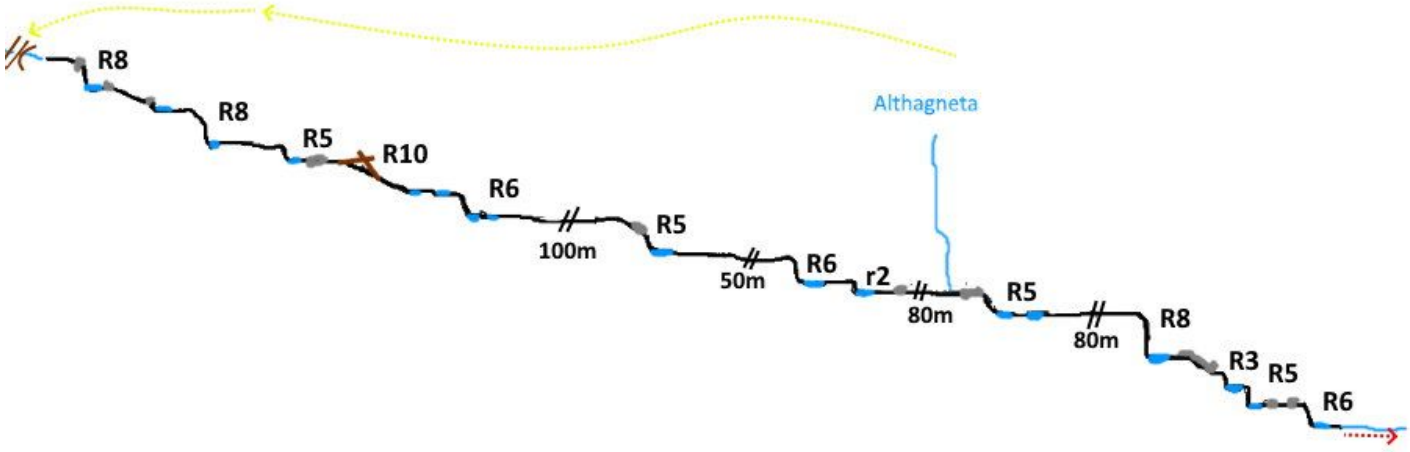

Tour: (machine translated)
A first part more sporty with small waterfalls and badinas. Second part of chaos of blocks and logs between high rock walls, at the end of this part arrives Althagneta on the left. The third part is more grassy, with forest and wider. The final part from the waterfall of Kakouetta to the end is the area of footbridges.

Return: (machine translated)
We will have to walk down the walkway to the parking lot.
