Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Alpine canyon with a first part boxed and a second more open, with large flows even in summer, so it will force us to choose very carefully the time to do it (late summer). Canyon for experienced people

Hydrology: (machine translated)
In the boxed area it is complicated, then the canyon opens up and it would be easy at almost any point.

Access: (machine translated)
On the N230 between Pont de Suert and Vielha.
At pk 147, at the end of the Baserca reservoir, there is a curve with a parking area next to the bridge over the Salenques.

Approach: (machine translated)
We cross the road and next to the bridge the S9 trail comes out. We will go up next to the river about 2kms to a metal bridge where we cross it. Here we will go to the left on a path with milestones in which the climb is already increasing, the path is quite close to the stream and when it softens the ascent, we will watch our left to find a little marked path that leads us to the riverbed.

Tour: (machine translated)
See description in Canyoning

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we will go to the left to take the access path.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 42.5990 0.7530
