Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as Aritzearre, with both toponymies we can find it in the maps. It is a vertical race, open, with water only in the rainy season and with natural anchorages. Beautiful environment, wild descent and very little known/frequented. Almost, almost adventure.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Yes, although the terrain is quite complicated

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in the beautiful area of Malerreka, between Doneztebe-Santesteban and Leitza.
On the NA170, at the p.k. 21.5 there is a recurve with an extended shoulder, an area to leave the car to return.
If we have an access vehicle (recommended), we go to p.k. 20.5 and go up towards Urubamba. 20.5 and go up towards Urrutiña. We will go up almost to the top by a cemented/paved track, in the penultimate curve, left curve with an old farmhouse above, we find a track on the right. We will take it and go along it for 1km to the stream. If it is in bad condition we can park in this area, on the side without disturbing.

Approach: (machine translated)
Immediately if we have parked next to the regatta, otherwise we will have to follow the indicated track to the stream (1km approx. of track).

Tour: (machine translated)
Vertical, with rappels from natural and very little equipment, almost

Return: (machine translated)
We will follow the creek past the pipe, cross the creek and look for the best way to get up to the road.
