Summary: (machine translated)
Collection canyon, with an incredible environment, comfortable access and peculiar return. Rappels up to 26m, with some overhangs worthy of photographing.
For more info ask the EGAN openers.

Hydrology:
No

Access: (machine translated)
From Sant Llorenç de Morunys take the LV-4241 road, towards Berga. Just after passing the bridge of Llinars, we will take the asphalted track on our left, we will pass the camping d'aigua d'ora.
Just where the campsite ends the track divides, if we continue straight ahead we would go to the Bco de Aigua de Llinars, in this case we will turn right onto a track that climbs steeply towards the hermitage of Mare Deu de la Mata. We will continue climbing up to a farmhouse where there is a track on the left but we will continue to the right (in this area the track begins to be in bad condition).
A few hundred meters later the track makes a sharp turn to the left right along the mountain ridge, leaving the Aigua de la Corba stream on the right. After the turn, a few meters later there is a small esplanade with a track on the right, park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave the track to the north, continue climbing and the track will zigzag to go turning east for 2km to the remains of a farmhouse Can Garriga.
At this point we leave the main track and we go to the right over the cuts about 400m to the head of the ravine.

Tour:

Return: (machine translated)
At 1250m we will find a path that crosses the stream. We will take it to the right up to the car.
