Summary: (machine translated)
Simple canyon, for beginners, to be done in spring with good flow. Quite aesthetic and with only 4 rappels it will force us to carry cords and some material.
Better to do it with a combination of cars, if we want to park next to the mill we have to call (660 03 55 11), otherwise we will park in the cemetery which is the best option.

Hydrology:
Si

Access: (machine translated)
Take the N260 to the Ribes de Fresser railroad station.
At the station the GIV-4011 road goes up to Campelles (6kms).
With two cars, at km. 2, in the closed curve to the right, the road to the left that goes to Bael the GIV-4714, after the first kilometer the road makes a left curve on our river, a few meters before we can park the car of return.
With the access car we will go up to Campelles, we cross it and park next to the cemetery. If we want to park next to the Molí we will have to ask for permission.
In our case, if we go with only one car, we think it is better to leave it at the exit and make the approach from the return car.

Approach: (machine translated)
From the cemetery: we walk about 100m to the track that goes down to the river, cemented track that goes down to Molí de Can Coll.
From the return parking lot: go back towards the road to Campelles and right next to the curve there is a path that goes up (PR) to Campelles, a path always between trees where we will climb the 250m of slope that separate us from the road, once in the village we must go towards the cemetery and before reaching it take the track to the left to the Molí.

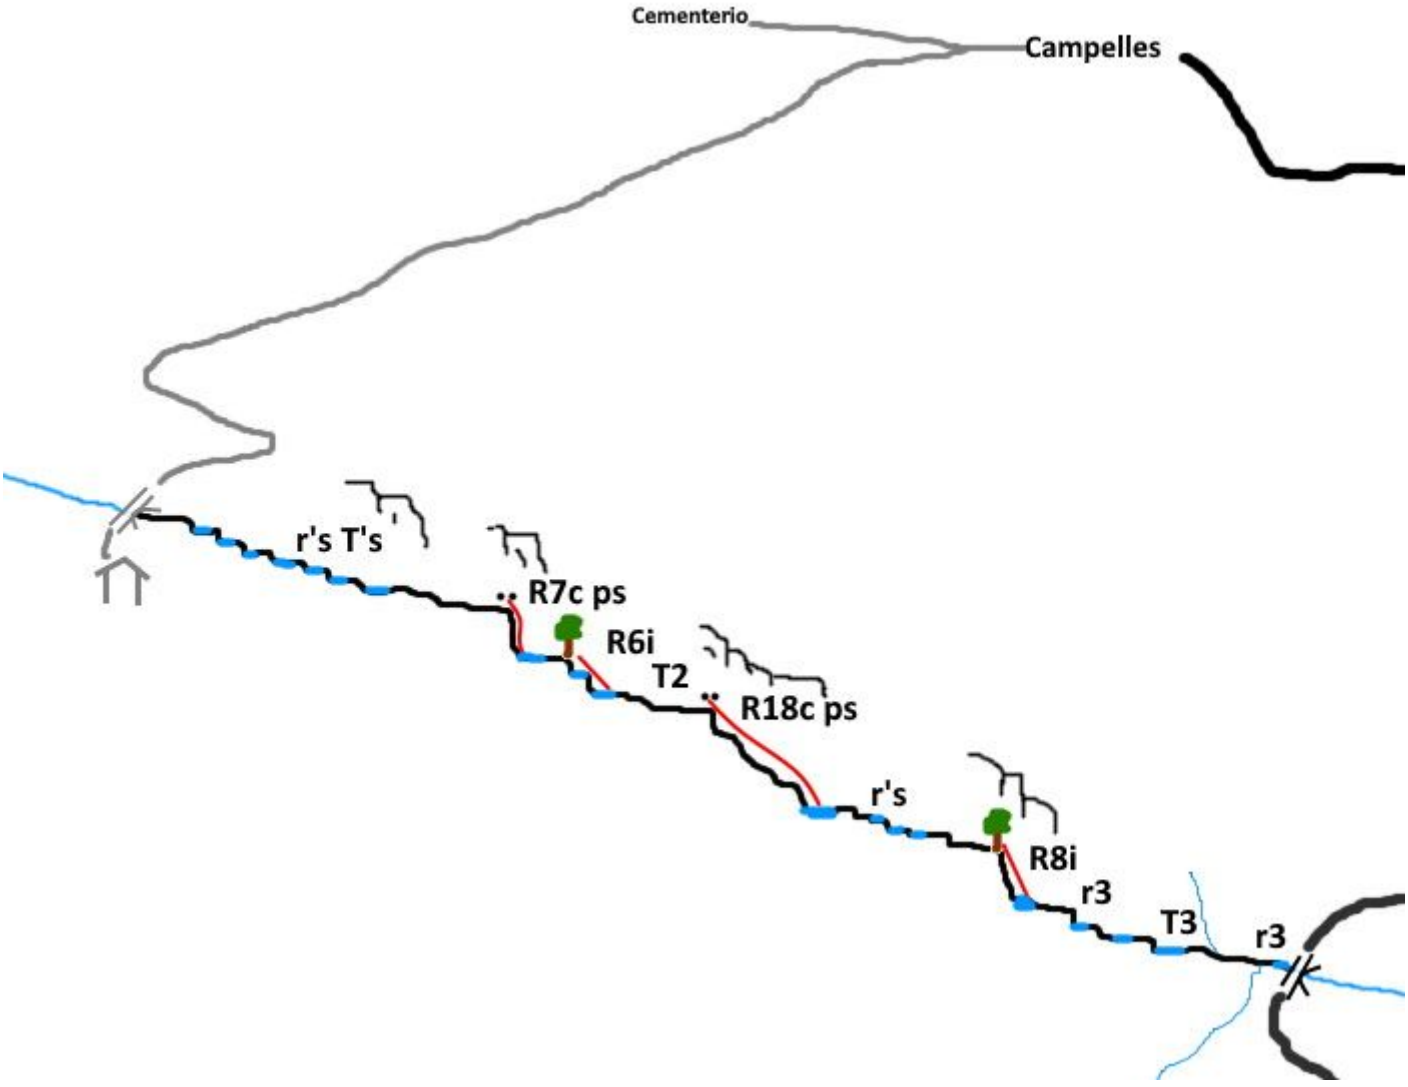

Tour: (machine translated)
Initiation, a first part of climbing, then the rappels, to finally have another small area of climbing.

Return: (machine translated)
We will arrive at the road bridge
