Summary: (machine translated)
Hiking canyon with rappelling and swimming section at the exit.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
To Rodellar. Provided you have 2 vehicles available, you can bring a vehicle down to the camping 'El Puente'.

Approach: (machine translated)
From Rodellar, take the footpath that descends NNW into the bed of the Mascun River. Descend along the edge of the stream to the beginning of the constriction.

Tour: (machine translated)
The descent is quite attractive if there is enough water flow and can also be connected to the descent in the Mascun inferiore. The core are the Pozos and the Chaos De Palomera. Also an exit at the Puente Coda and from there orographic. left on the path up to Rodellar is possible.

Return: (machine translated)
At the exit of the Ultimos Estrechos, swim out into the Barrasil and take an orographic right onto a path that leads downstream to the Puente Pedruel at the campsite 'El Puente'. If you don't have a second vehicle here, go up steeply on the road and at the top turn left to Rodellar.
There is also a path up to Rodellar, relatively close above the Alcanadre, just past the Puente Coda. The trail starts about 20m from the eastern end of the bridge at Puente de Pedruel.
It is also possible to walk back up to the entry in the canyon itself.
