Summary: (machine translated)
It is really a tributary of the Caubes on the right that rises under Sant Honorat, a little frequented ravine, without a clear path of approach and generally dry. It is a collector's ravine but with good scenery.

Hydrology:
Posibles

Access: (machine translated)
We will go up the C14 towards Seu de Urgel/Andorra.
After passing Oliana we will arrive at the Pantà d'Oliana and the branch of the C14z. Here we will have a track that will take us up the ravine of the Caubes for 1.5 km to a sharp left curve where we will park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave by the path that is in front for 500m, here we will take a path to the left that raises us by the Obac and then heads south to go to give a track. Just when we get to it we will turn right without path to the West, we will pass by a tributary to go to the second tributary under the Roques de Sant Honorat where our descent begins.

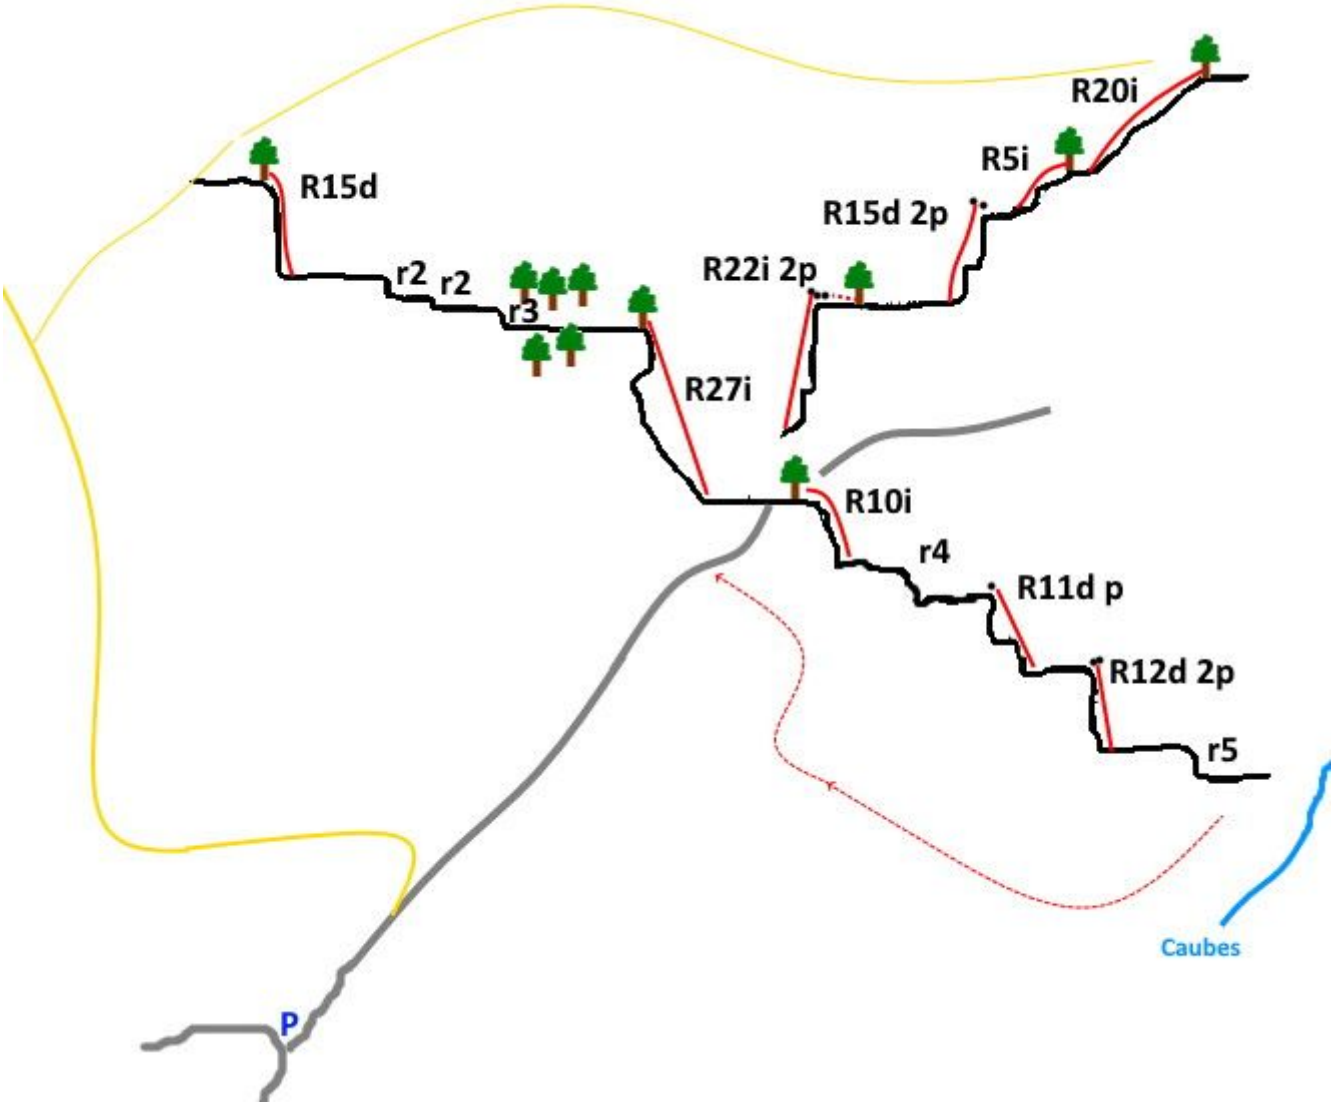

Tour: (machine translated)
Several rappels to save the different jumps that we will find.

Return: (machine translated)
We will arrive at the path where we turn left. We will only have to retrace the access road
