Summary: (machine translated)
Quite vertical ravine, with a couple of waterfalls, the first of them fractioned, beautiful in an idyllic setting. The final part, after the Bco Bao de la Casa surely we can not perform because the facilities were deteriorated in the old dam.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
In the central part no

Access: (machine translated)
We will be located in Chacín.
Chacín ravine
We approach until Chacín, once here we leave a car in the chapel of San Paio (end of the ravine) by the DC3404 and the other at the beginning. For this we go to Gosende.
From the village of Gosende, just before entering we have a track on the left where we park for Ribeiriños (and we could also use it) and another track just after passing the village, on the left, where we park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Ribeiriños and San Paio Banks
From the Ribeiriños parking lot we will go out to the right about 200m to a small stream near the power lines, we can enter from here. From the other parking we will take the path that goes down to the Capela de San Paio until crossing the stream or we can go to the left to look for the previous stream.

Tour: (machine translated)
A few first rappels that bring us closer to the beautiful fractional waterfall over the cave of Carriza. Then a couple more rappels before joining Ribeiriños. Together a couple of rappels before Bao da Casa, where we can take the path to the right or continue trying to make the two remaining rappels from the old dam, but they may be in bad condition.

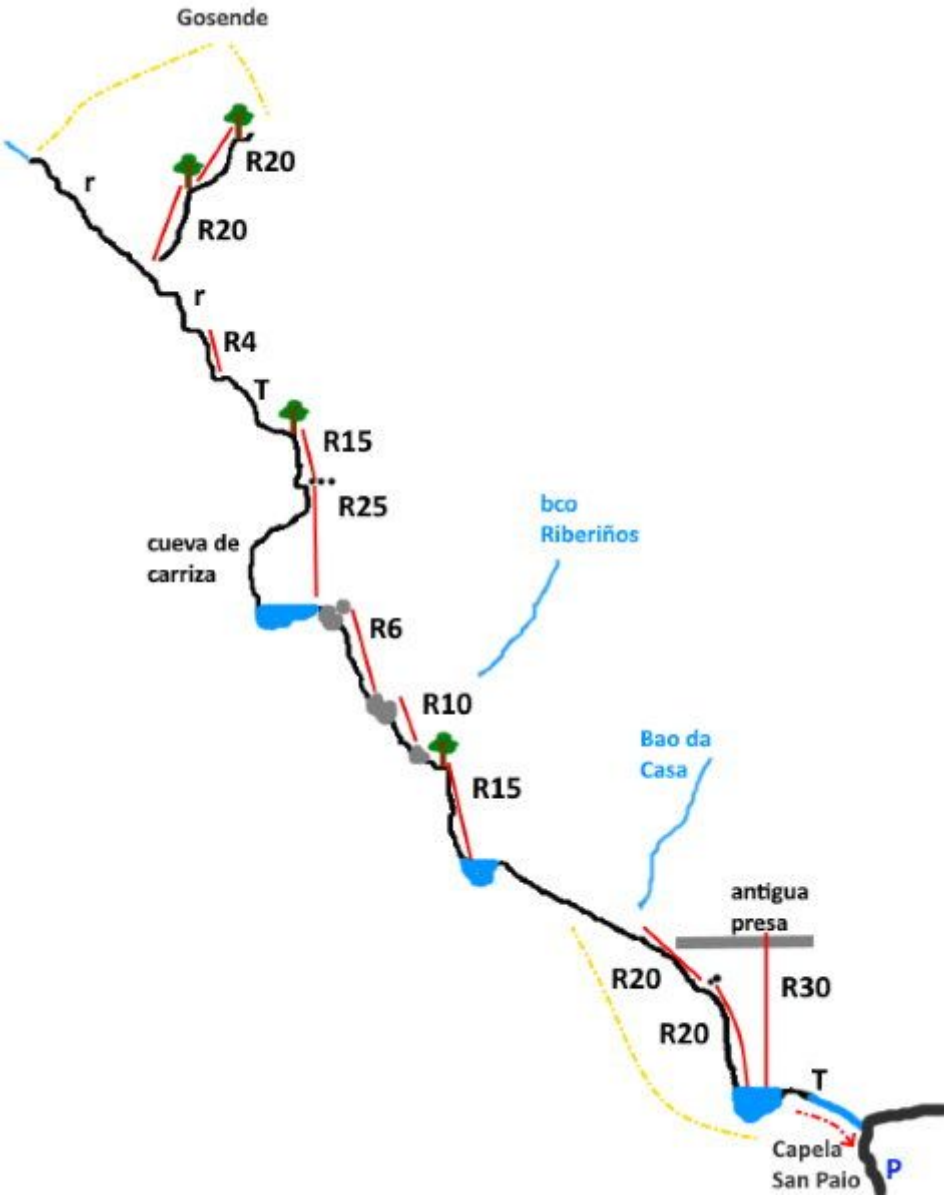

Return: (machine translated)
Take the path on the right to the chapel.
