Summary: (machine translated)
Very aquatic canyon, to be done in summer, it is very little known and therefore with facilities quite deteriorated by its poor maintenance. Being in this area of gullies is a little frequented canyon, but it is a little gem.
Easily combined with Zitziratze, Holtzarte and Phista.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Yes outside the central aisle

Access: (machine translated)
Situating us on the Col de Larrau (D26 or NA 2011) between Spain and France
Access as Zitziratze with a high car.
We will descend to the French side until the col of Erroymendi. Here there is a track to the right and in that esplanade on the right, we reach a farm that we leave aside and continue down the track to a small esplanade next to the river where we will park.
To get here we will need a high car, if we don't have it we can park further up the hill.
Access as a more accessible Phista
Another option for all vehicles is to take advantage of the Phista access. At the exit of Larrau we see a detour to the right towards the Cascade de Pista. We go up the forest track to the parking lot.

Tour:

Return: (machine translated)
We go out to the access track to Phista
