Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as Clot de Raig by toponymy. Dry ravine, except after rains, quite dressed and with long access if we do not have 4×4.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Because of the dense environment, they are difficult

Access: (machine translated)
From Girona on the GI-531 or from Bonmatí on the GI-532 to Sant Martí de Llémena.
Just in the village there is a parking area on the right at the curve and there is a small track on the right that crosses the bridge, we get in and cross it. Here we can go left, parallel to the river and park where the path turns right. If we turn right, after 100m we will turn left to go up to Cal Nerós and park here (ask if we bother).
With the access car we will continue along the GI-531 almost 2 kms until the detour to the right by the GIV-5315 (Granollers de Rocacorba), we will pass the restaurant Arnau and after 50m we have a track on the right that goes up to Cal Feliu. If we have a normal car we will go up as far as we can. With 4×4 we will follow this track straight ahead, leaving some small tracks on the left and right until a small hill, where we will leave the main track to go right to the riverbed.

Approach: (machine translated)
With 4×4 it is immediate, we will go by the left of the riverbed looking for the best way to approach the first vertical given the dressed of the environment.
Without 4×4 we will have to follow the track along the described route.

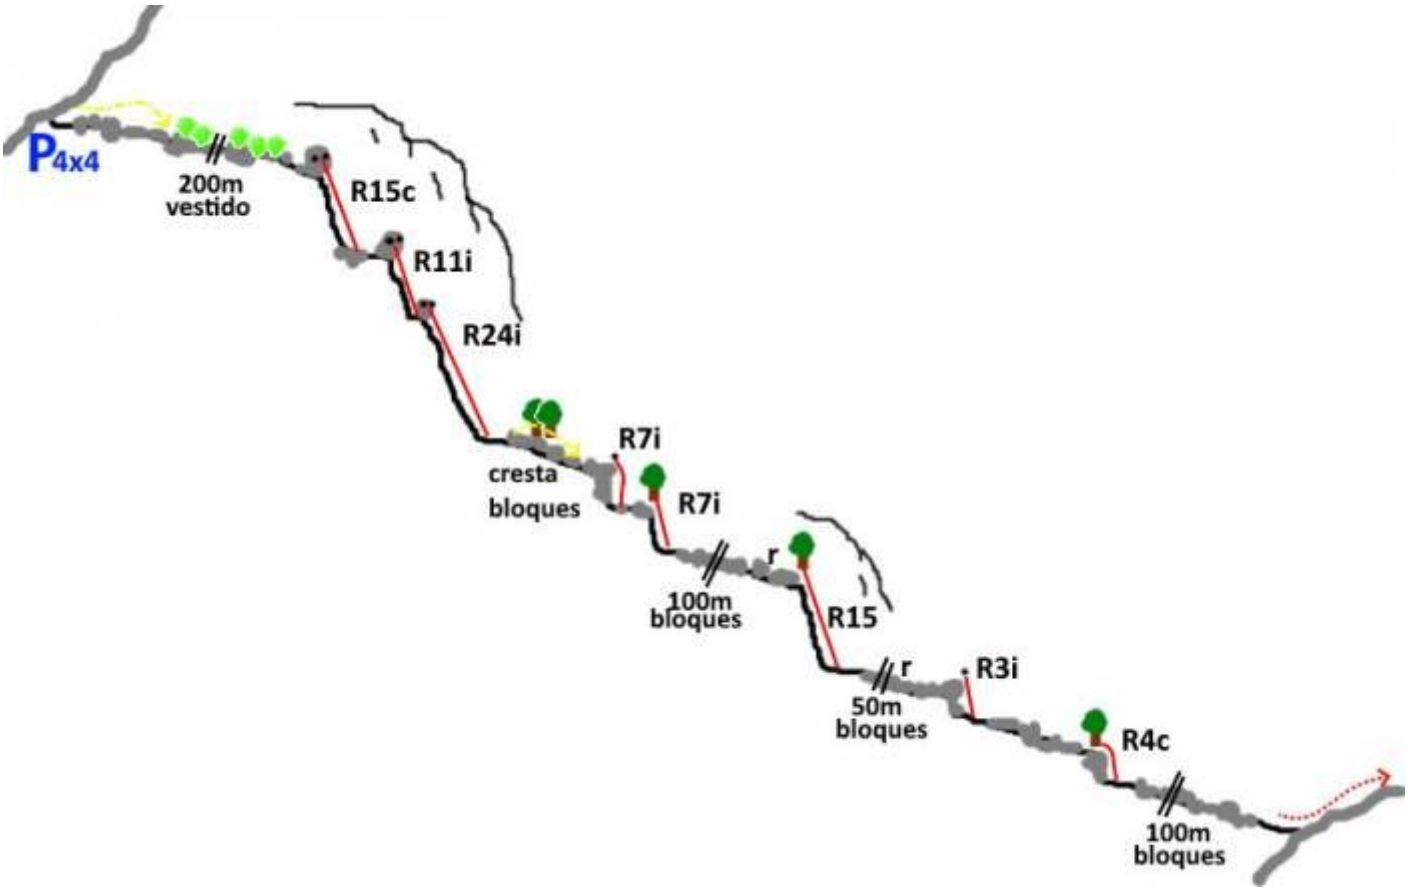

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple and fairly dressed, a vertical area in which we will chain 3 rappels to save almost all the slope of the ravine, then it loses a lot of interest.

Return: (machine translated)
When we reach a little used track, we will take it to the left to go down to Cal Nerós, depending on where we have parked we will follow the track.
