Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as Llorer or Llort because of the fountain at the end of the ravine.
Without much interest, it is a generally dry canyon in which the most notable is a R30. We will be able to access half of the canyon and we will only leave the R20 to do.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Vall d' Uixo I and II
Take the T333 towards Horta de Sant Joan. We pass the detour and 100m later on the left we have the detour to "Els Ports" and we continue to the recreational area of Franqueta. Continue along the track (now unpaved) and continue to the junction with the river Uixó. Here we leave a car. If we have another car (4×4 or tall car) we can continue along the track.

Approach: (machine translated)
We continue along the track, we pass the tip of Cirers and after about 2.5 kms we have a path on the left that would take us to the middle of the ravine, below the R20.
If we continue along the track for almost another kilometer, we have on the left the path that goes up to the Refugi de les Clotes around the Punta de la Serena. Shortly before reaching the refuge we can turn left along the GR following the course of our descent to the first difficulties.

Tour:
Ver topo

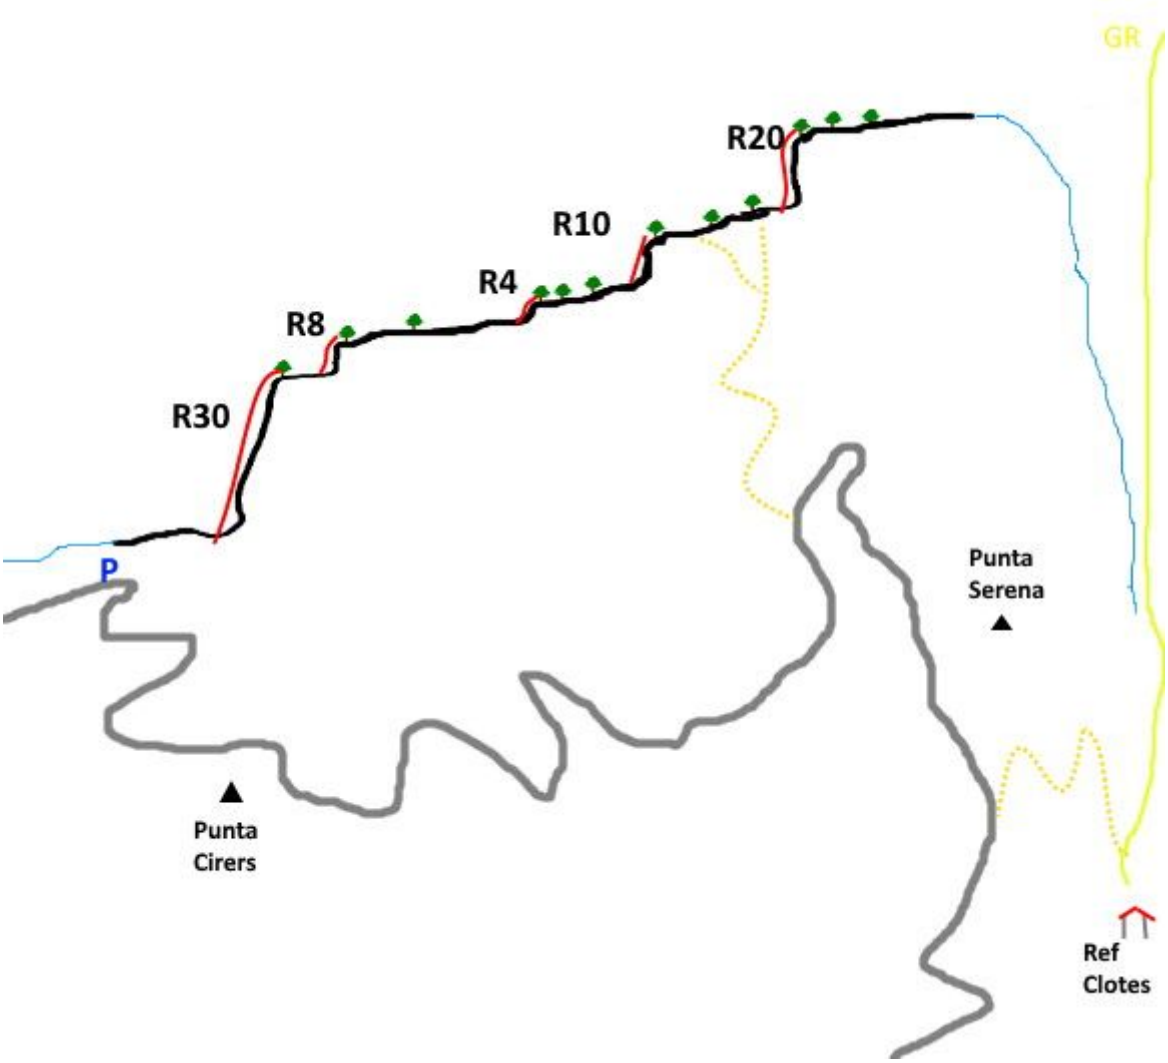

Return: (machine translated)
After the R30 we follow the riverbed until we reach the Font del Llort where we will have the track on the left.
