Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Open canyon, dry and not very interesting. It is worth combining it with the via ferrata and thus lengthen the day. We are told that the rock bridge has disappeared, now there is a meeting 2m below and is somewhat rusty. A lot of caution!

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Throughout the tour

Access: (machine translated)
We have to go to Centelles, on the C17 towards Vic we leave at exit 46. Just as we enter the village we will see a detour to the right to the vias ferratas. Follow the signs to them.

Approach: (machine translated)
We have two options, do the VF (recommended) or take the trail.
For the trail we head north on the track that makes a detour up to the top of the cuts. When the track turns from south to west there is a trail to the left that takes us to the trailhead.
By the VF we leave towards the tracks, once in the ferrata we will go by the easy variant since we will go to stop at the first rappel.

Tour: (machine translated)
Open descent with nothing much to do except for the 40m rappel, which can be broken up on the rock block.

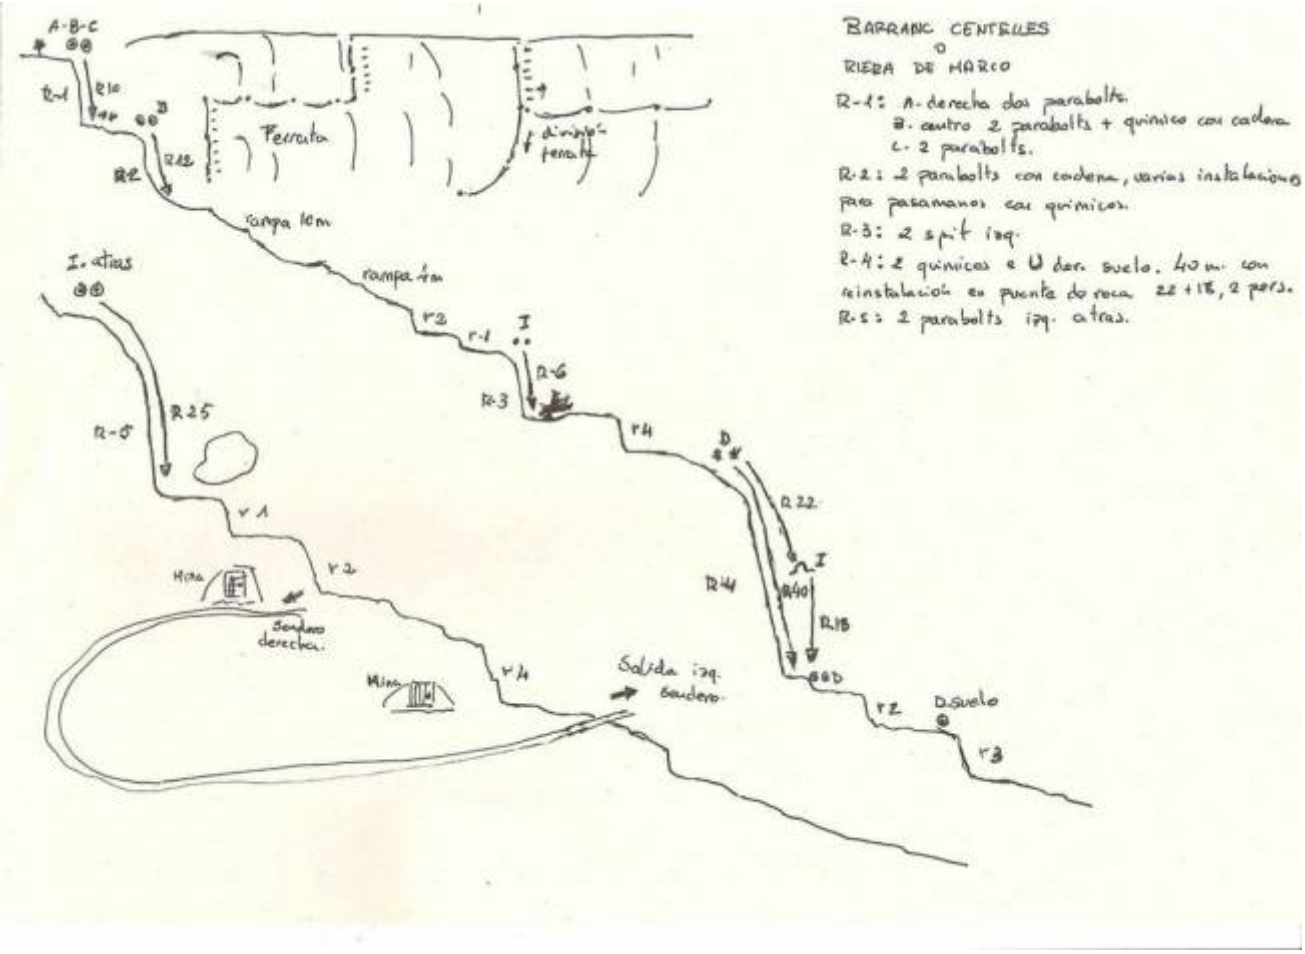

Return: (machine translated)
We will follow the stream and we will see a path to the right, we take it and it takes us a piece of river skills, then crosses to the left and we continue here. We will try to look for trails without losing altitude that go north... it can be a little tricky in some places.
