Summary: (machine translated)
Or as it appears in the official toponymy bco de la Chirona, it is a dry ravine, very boxed, with a different structure to what there is in the area, but without great difficulties except the last one.
To be able to descend this ravine we will have to have clear that it is possible to go for the Turia since we will go for him up to the bridge.

In the first part

Access: (machine translated)
Take the N330 towards Santa Cruz de Moya.
Take the CM2251 heading north towards Ademuz.
Shortly after leaving the village we have the detour to the right to La Olmeda. We will go down this small road and park at the entrance of the village.

Approach: (machine translated)
A path leaves from the top of the village, there are two branches NE and NW, we will head northwest following it upwards, we can't miss it, after 2 kilometers of gentle climb we will reach a hill where the path changes slope and runs along the top of the ravine until we reach the head of the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
To be completed

Return: (machine translated)
When we reach the Turia River we must follow it to the bridge, after passing it we turn left to the village.
