Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Simple ravine, generally dry except after rains, when it is very slippery due to the polished rocks.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
In the fattened part it is impossible

Access: (machine translated)
From Pego on the CV-712 towards Vall d'Ebo.
At the exit of the village, before crossing the bridge, turn left towards the swimming pool. After 100m turn right and continue towards the swimming pool. We leave the sports center to one side and continue along this road without turning off. The road will get worse at times and so after 5km we will reach a left curve, with a track that goes off to the right and the exit of our ravine evident on the right.
We get into this track on the right and park (there is a post with the PR CV168).

Approach: (machine translated)
It is not very intuitive.
With the ravine to our right we climb through the almond trees to the top, in search of a path little marked in which we will see traces of yellow paint. The path winds through the walls, aerial in some steps, to go up until it crosses the shore, time to look for the first rappel.

Tour: (machine translated)
Very nice fattened ravine, perhaps the lack of water subtracts a point. We will have a succession of rappels almost without rest until we get back to the track where we parked.

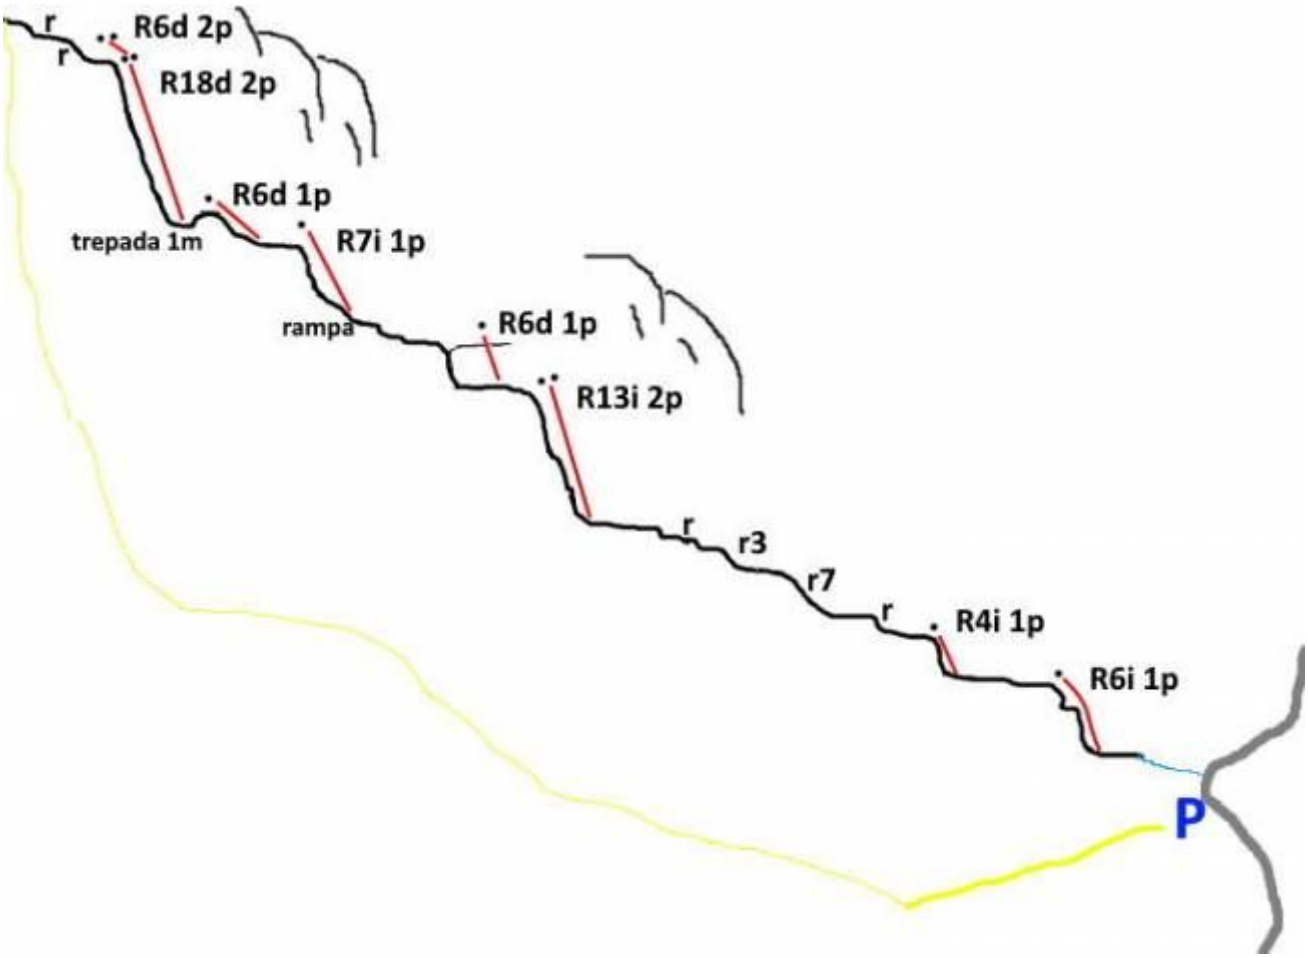

Return: (machine translated)
Obviously, we will follow the riverbed until we can exit to the right.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 38.7710 -0.2019
