Summary: (machine translated)
Generally dry and very entertaining canyon. The access is bad because the track is in bad condition.

Hydrology:
– TODO –

Access: (machine translated)
We must approach the Teruel village of Manzanera. We follow the A-1514 towards Los Cerezos, we leave on the right the detour to "Las Alhambras, Los Olmos", 500m later approximately there is a warehouse on the right, there is a track on the left that we must follow. Cross the Manzanera river if possible. And we follow the track as far as we can.

Approach: (machine translated)
We continue the climb along the track, we reach a detour where we will go left, and soon to the right, after a while the track ends. Continue on a path that crosses the bed of the ravine (probably dry unless it has rained). It begins the hard climb, with the ravine to the right. The trail is poorly marked but there is no loss, there are stone cairns. At the top we continue to the right, and soon after we reach the first cliff.

Tour: (machine translated)
A succession of rappels and rappelling without great difficulty.

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel you come out onto the path just where it crosses the riverbed. You only have to retrace the way up
