Summary: (machine translated)
Vertical and steep ravine in the first part and then more open and grassy. Long descent in the area of Calera

Hydrology: (machine translated)
In the first part it is almost impossible. When it opens almost anywhere.

Access: (machine translated)
We arrived at Lanestosa by the N629, in the pk 61.2 in a turn with some houses we have the detour to Calera del Prado. We continue to the village and park in the square or next to the church the car back.
The access car by the road of aldeacueva almost 4kms to a crossroads behind a house that begins a forest. Here we take the track that goes to the right and is gaining height, soon another crossroads to the right and later another to the right put us in the valley of the ravine. As a viewpoint we will continue along the track that descends to the entrance to the stream of Pozo Negro where we park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Calera river ravines and its accesses

We cross the stream by the dam and go up a path, towards the Cuesta del Hoyo ravine, to the shack in ruins.
From here we follow the track to the west and in a kilometer and a half we will arrive at the ravine. Be careful not to get into Cuchillo which is the previous one.

Tour: (machine translated)
Long and vertical descent, very hard due to its long hours of development and mounting facilities.

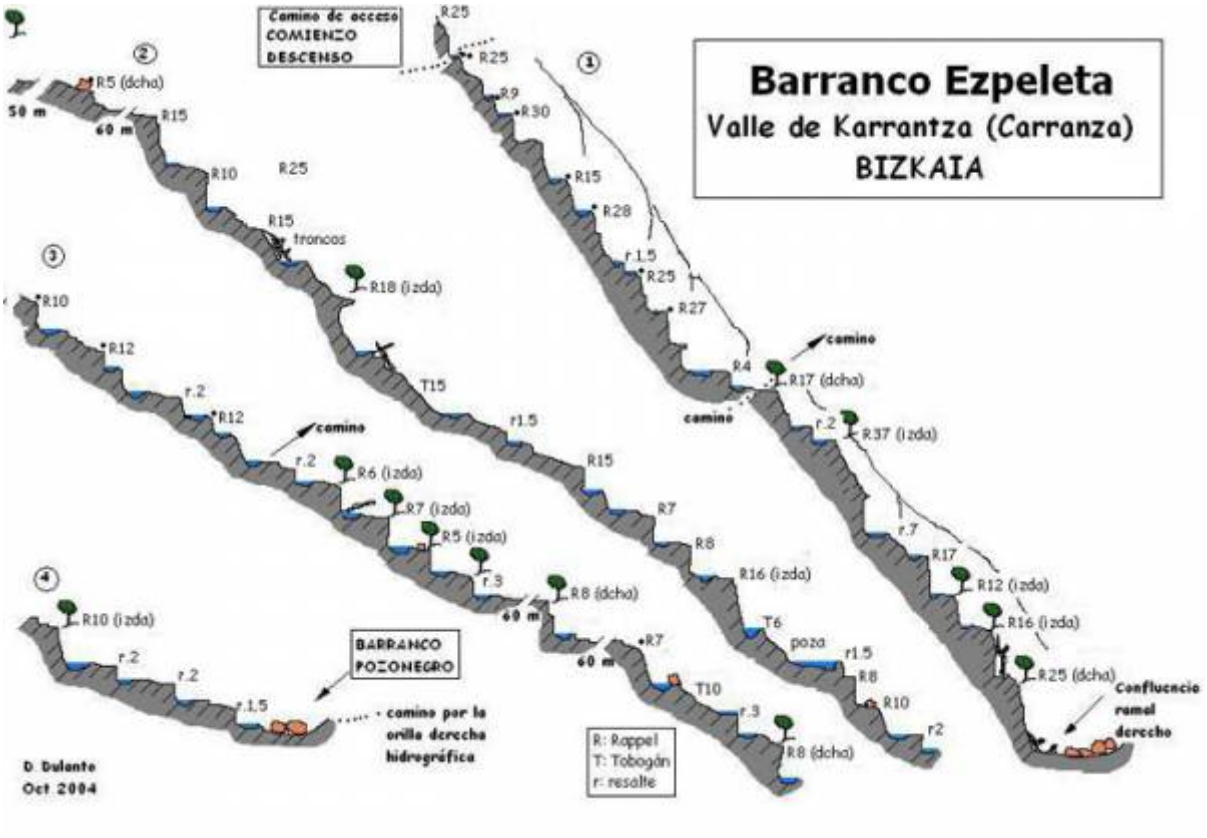

Return: (machine translated)
After the last projections the ravine meets Cuchillo and soon with Pozo Negro on the right. Here we can continue down the Pozo Negro gully or turn right in search of the path that is a few meters higher up.
