Summary: (machine translated)
Alpine canyon with two very different parts, the first one up to the very simple escape and the second one from the escape with the goulotte. Star point of the descent for its beauty and difficulty.
Very careful with the flow that in the narrowing can drag us very easily. The spring only for experienced people

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Between the first and second part

Access: (machine translated)
On the N260 between Pont de Suert and La Pobla de Segur, we are located in Senterada direction Viu de Llevata (Pont de Suert).
At 9kms past Sarroca de Bellera we have the detour to Xerallo on the right. We will continue along this road following the detours to Manyanet.
If we have a normal car we will park at the entrance in the "village parking".
If we have a 4×4 we can continue up the track until a barrier before a double curve.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave Manyanet by the track, when we cross the ravine of Pala Freda we will see the exit path on the right. Continue to the barrier, pass it and after 10-15min we will see a path to go down to the river.
Before the barrier, in the Confós ravine we will see on the right the escape or entrance path to the second part (more interesting).

Tour: (machine translated)
The first part is more open, with some abseiling and even some rappels that we can avoid. If we are short of time or we want to combine it with another canyon we can save it.
The 2nd part is much more attractive both aesthetically and sportively. The canyon narrows until it forms its magnificent V-shape in the central goulotte. At this point we will have to be extremely cautious because the water acquires speed and strength.

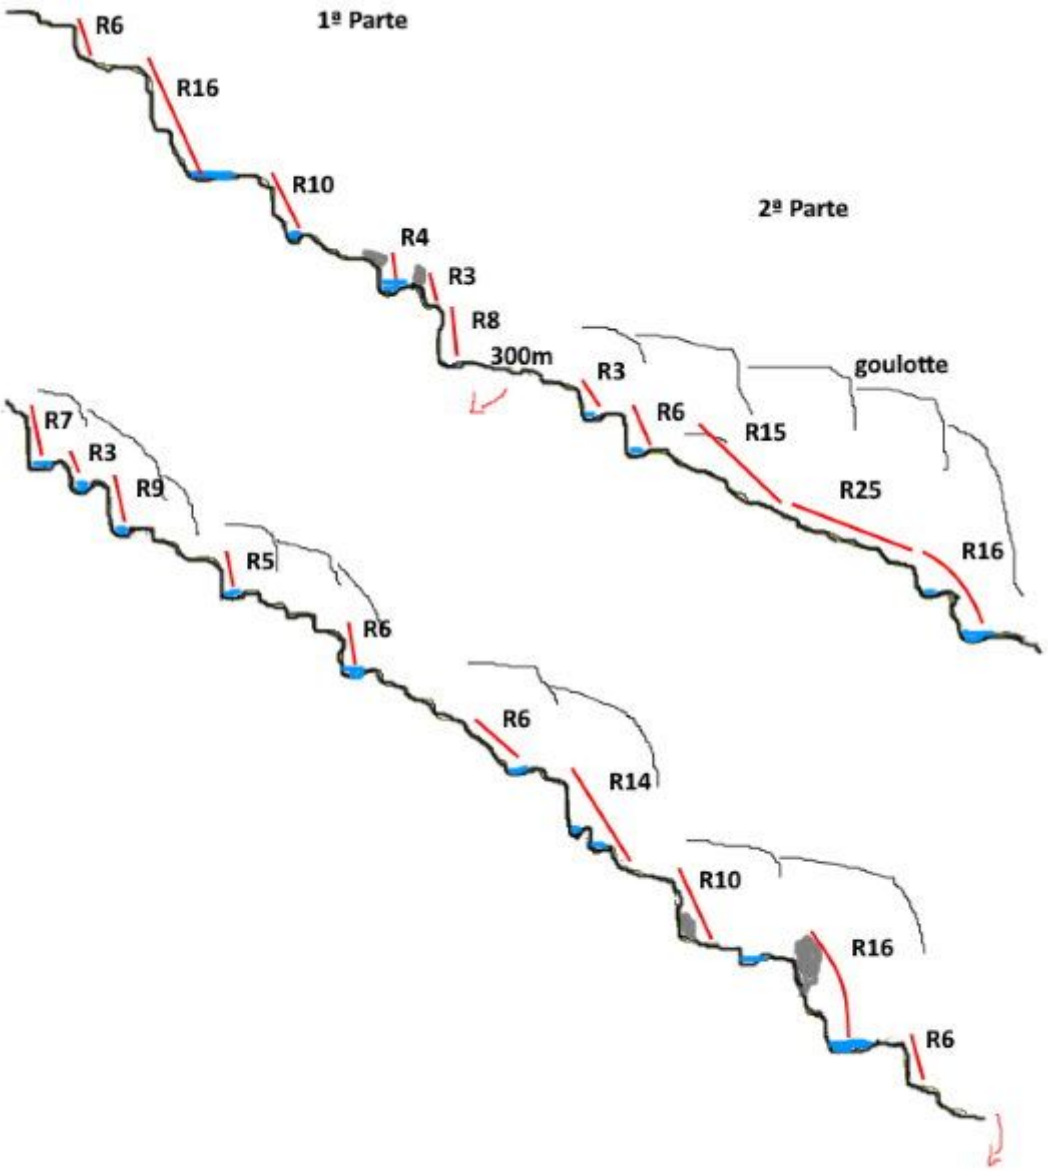

Return: (machine translated)
Once the ravine opens, after the last rappel, we will see a milestone/boulder on the right and a path that after passing through an abandoned gunwale leads us to the access track.
