Summary: (machine translated)
It is still a water trekking with some climbing. We will have to go up and then go down the same riverbed. Some beautiful straits always with water await us. In some areas we will have to swim so we will have to take it into account if it has rained heavily in the area since it narrows a lot and can get strong.
We can also do the section from Charco Negro to the reservoir but it is less interesting.
(27.06.2025-Julian C.) Ravine affected by the Dana, See Observations.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
No, but if we are able to go up, we will have no problem going down.

Access: (machine translated)
On the road from Utiel to Benageber CV390.
5kms before reaching Benagéber we have the detour to the left to Villanueva. We will take this road and follow it, then as a track in good condition, always heading north towards Charco Negro. It is not necessary to reach it, we can park at the stream.
From Sinarcas we will leave by a track towards the east that also takes us to the Charco Negro.

Approach: (machine translated)
Going up the creek along the PR until you can't go any further.

Tour: (machine translated)
Once we can no longer continue we get into the water and go up the stream until it reopens. The return we will do it by the same creek

Return: (machine translated)
We undo the access path.
