Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Alpine canyon, open, without great atmosphere except at the end. Little frequented, which will force us to carry spare material. The rappels are generally steep and many of them avoidable. It is better to do it in spring to ensure water on the descent.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Yes, the ravine is very open

Access: (machine translated)
We have to go towards the tunnel of Bielsa, for it we arrive to Ainsa and we take the A138 towards France or from France by the D929 going up by St Lary-Soulan. In the pk 88,5 we have the bridge over the Barrosa river, a few meters later we can park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We cross the road and head towards the meadows and the forest in front of us, our stream will be on the right. Where we can best climb the orographic right of the stream up to almost 1650m where a characteristic rock indicates the time to access the stream.

Tour: (machine translated) see sketch

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel, we will have a few cliffs and we can leave the stream to the right to look for the access meadows.
