Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Dry canyon with impressive views both in the approach and in the development. Well installed and with a final vertical that compensates the 2 hours of approach.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Not in the vertical

Access: (machine translated)
We must approach the village of Castril by the A-326.
At km 28.9 we turn left (Parque Natural Sierra del Castril). We continue along the road and then track down to the river following the signs of the park. We cross the river over a bridge and continue along the track. Then another bridge and continue to the end of the track at the Cortijo el Nacimiento.

Approach: (machine translated)
Along the path on the orographic left of the Castril, we pass the viewpoint of the barrando del Nacimiento and the remains of the farmhouse Peralejo.
We cross under the pipe to continue on the right bank of the river Castril. We will ignore a bridge that crosses to the other side and continue straight on. We arrive at a viewpoint where on the left we have the Barranco Nacimiento.
We will arrive at a place where we have to cross the riverbed to turn left and head towards the Osa gorge, where we will go up the ravine by the railings, taking advantage of the steps and cables to the top, up to the pass.
Once at the pass, we go left over the cliffs towards the south to the second dry riverbed, which is ours. We leave the trail to follow the riverbed.

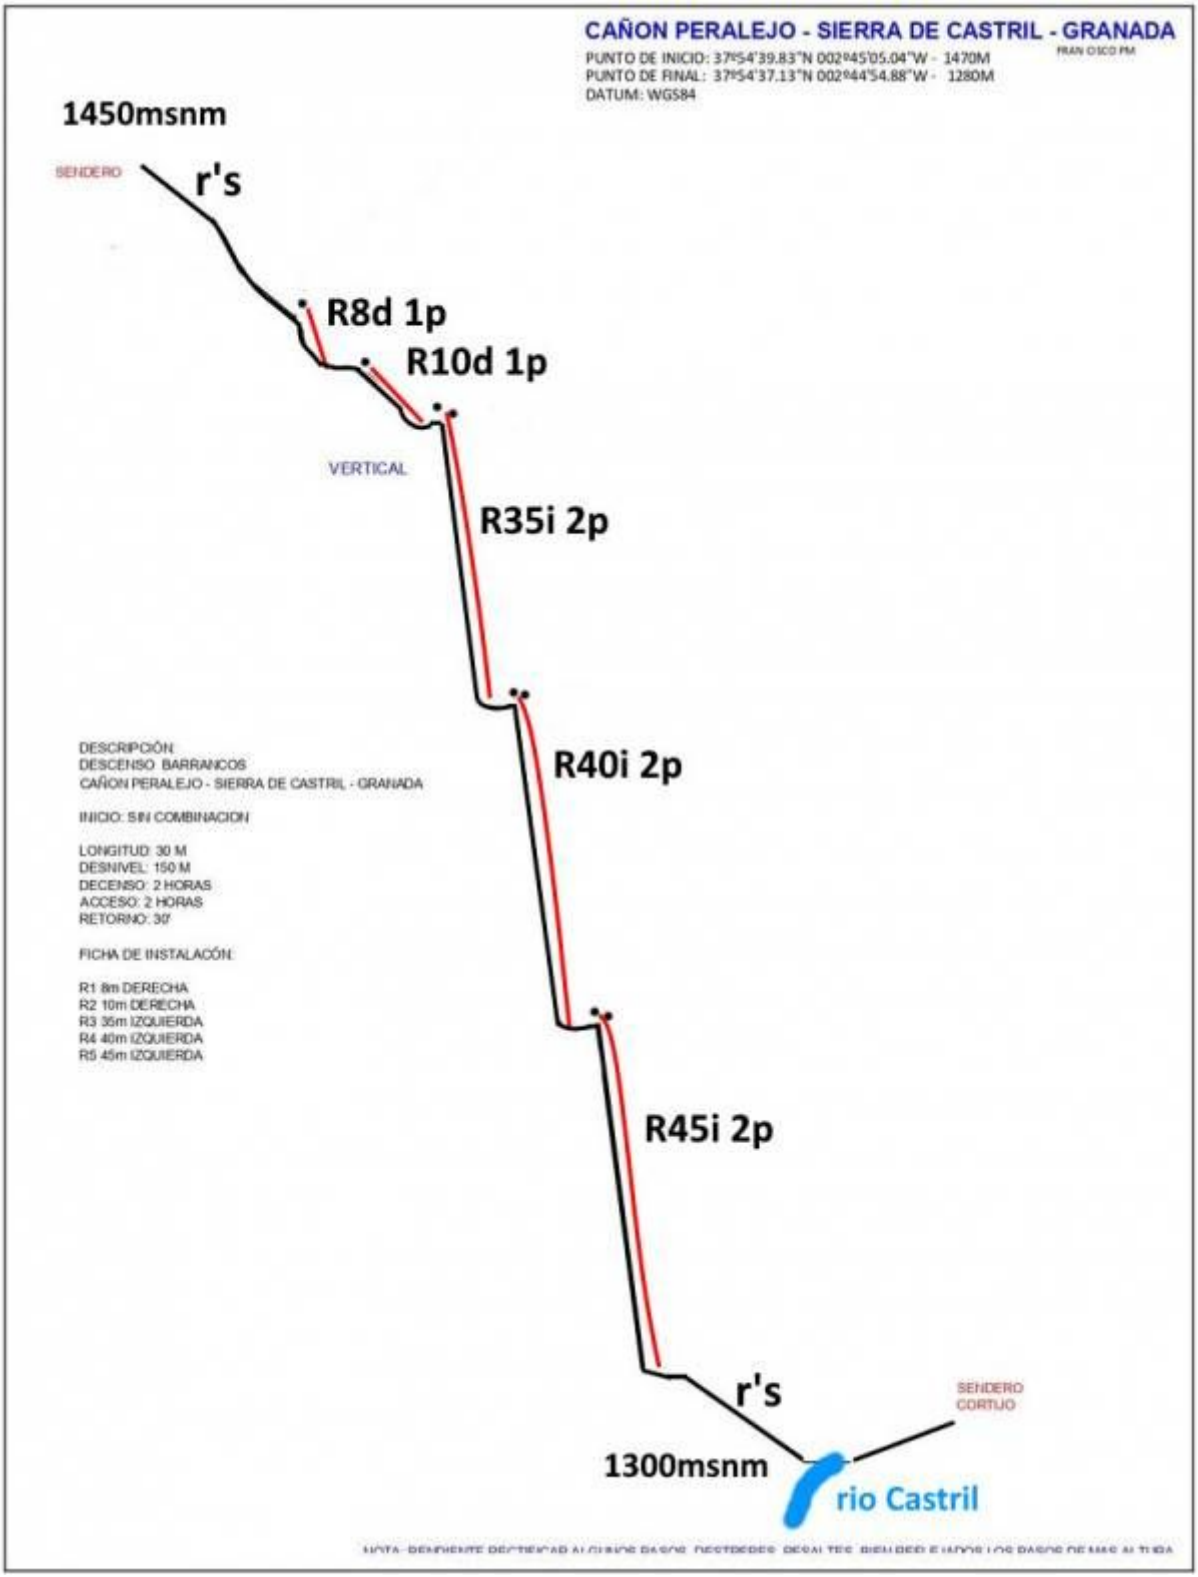

Tour: (machine translated)
A few short first rappels to reach the vertical.

Return: (machine translated)
We cross the riverbed to the access path and undo it.
