Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Small and little traveled ravine with a very interesting configuration of narrows and a long but very interesting approach and returns. Easy to locate as we will start just below El Huevo de San Cosme, we will find it with water after rains.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Before the straits on the right to the return trail

Access: (machine translated)
We must go to the parking lot of La Tejería
To do this on the N240 towards Lleida we will go to the Loporzano exit (A1227) and continue straight on towards Aguas. Shortly before arriving we will take the detour to the left to the Embalse de Guara. Before reaching the reservoir we will find a roundabout and a track on the left that leads to the parking of La Tejería.

Approach: (machine translated)
From La Tejería:
We will leave by the track that has a barrier for cars, in a left curve of the track, a path goes to the right that goes to "El Huevo" and to the Peña de San Cosme. We will cross a beautiful forest and we will see a fork to the right El Huevo (to the left Peña de San Cosme).

Tour: (machine translated)
A first rappel from a boxwood to enter the narrows, at first not too closed, in this area we have a couple of leaks on the right. From here some water can be emerging (except in summer), we can progress by climbing up to the narrowest area where we will find the rappels, which in many cases we have double installation (right and left). Beautiful waterfalls with moss, small caves and a very shady and humid environment will make us enjoy this area.

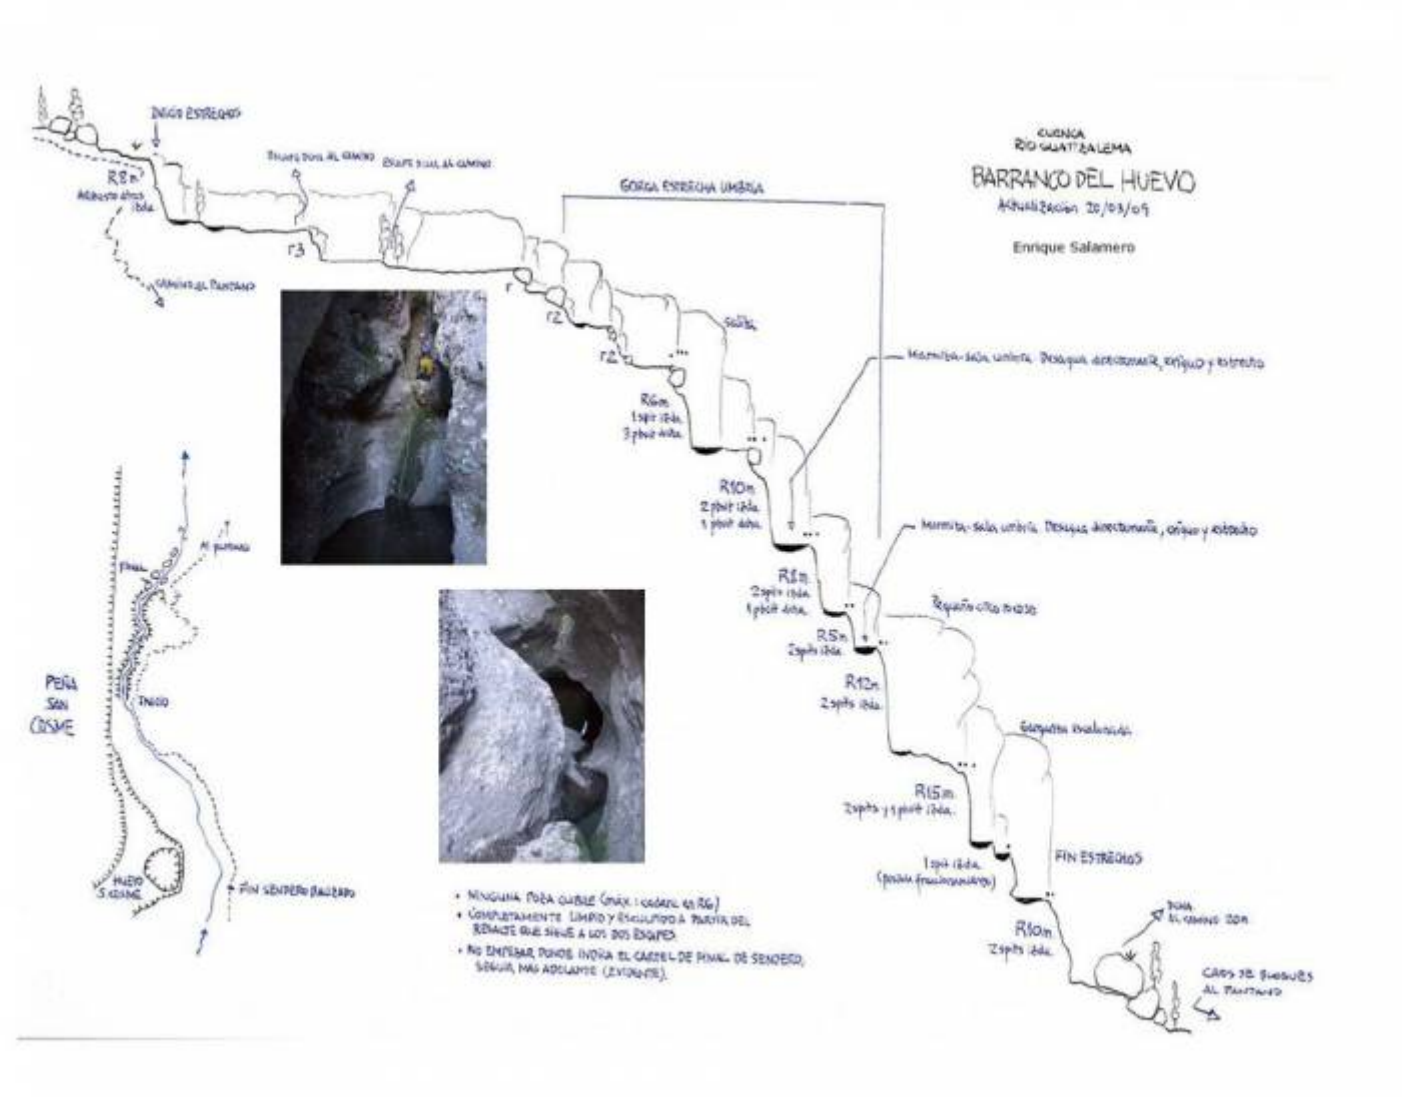

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we will exit to the right, at the beginning we will not see any path but soon we will see milestones that go up the ravine by its orographic right. Once at the head of the ravine the trail turns to the access path.
