Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as Cueva de la Campana or Barranco de Arigona.
Simple ravine, used for practices, in the zone of Igueste, short and easily combinable with Lomo Frailes, Gotera,...
Obligatory combination of vehicles.
Magnificent views, like its neighboring canyons, with a relatively short access and an almost immediate return.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in Igueste, next to Candelaria.
Location of the Igueste-Hondo ravines
We will leave the return vehicle on the TF-28 at p.k. 13.2 next to the bridge over the Los Poqueros river, next to the Agrícola bar.
With the access vehicle we go back to k.p. 10 to turn off to Barranco Hondo, we will go up the main road to look for the soccer field, just before there is a crossroads with Tostón street where we will go down until almost a curve, on the right there is a small street, Las Morretillas, here we will be able to park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Access to the Igueste-Hondo ravines
We continue along Morretillas street until the end to turn right, almost without a path. We can go horizontally to the west to the riverbed and then go down it to the track. We could choose to go diagonally down to the track.
In both cases the descent starts from the track.

Tour:
Ver topo

Return: (machine translated)
We leave on the left to go up to the road, here we turn right towards the bar area where we park.
