Summary: (machine translated)
Long and spectacular ravine, generally dry except after rains, with a waterfall of more than 60m that does not leave indifferent. Enviable environment, the only bad part is the long combination of vehicles that forces us.
Since the ravine is little frequented, it will be convenient to carry pruning shears and spare material.

Hydrology:
Sí

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in Cambrils, arriving by the L401 from Sant Llorens de Morunys by the Coll de Jou. From Coll de Nargó by the side of Llinars. Or from Solsona by the LV4011.
With the return vehicle we will go from Cambrils direction Solsona to Coll Pregon, here we will take the detour to the right to El Sàlzer, we will go down to Rasa el Sàlzer and here we turn right to the church of Santa Maria de Sàlzer again, we will follow this track until we are in front of the walls, just here the track makes a 180 degree turn following the Riu de la Mora. We parked around the bend.
With the access vehicle we go up to Cambrils and from there to Llinars, we will continue until we leave the village and in a sharp right curve a track comes out with the sign of Cal Gepet, we will continue straight on towards the Coll de Femia where we will park.

Approach: (machine translated)
It is easy, we only have to go down to the riverbed, it is very dressed so we will have to follow it outside until we reach the first rappel.

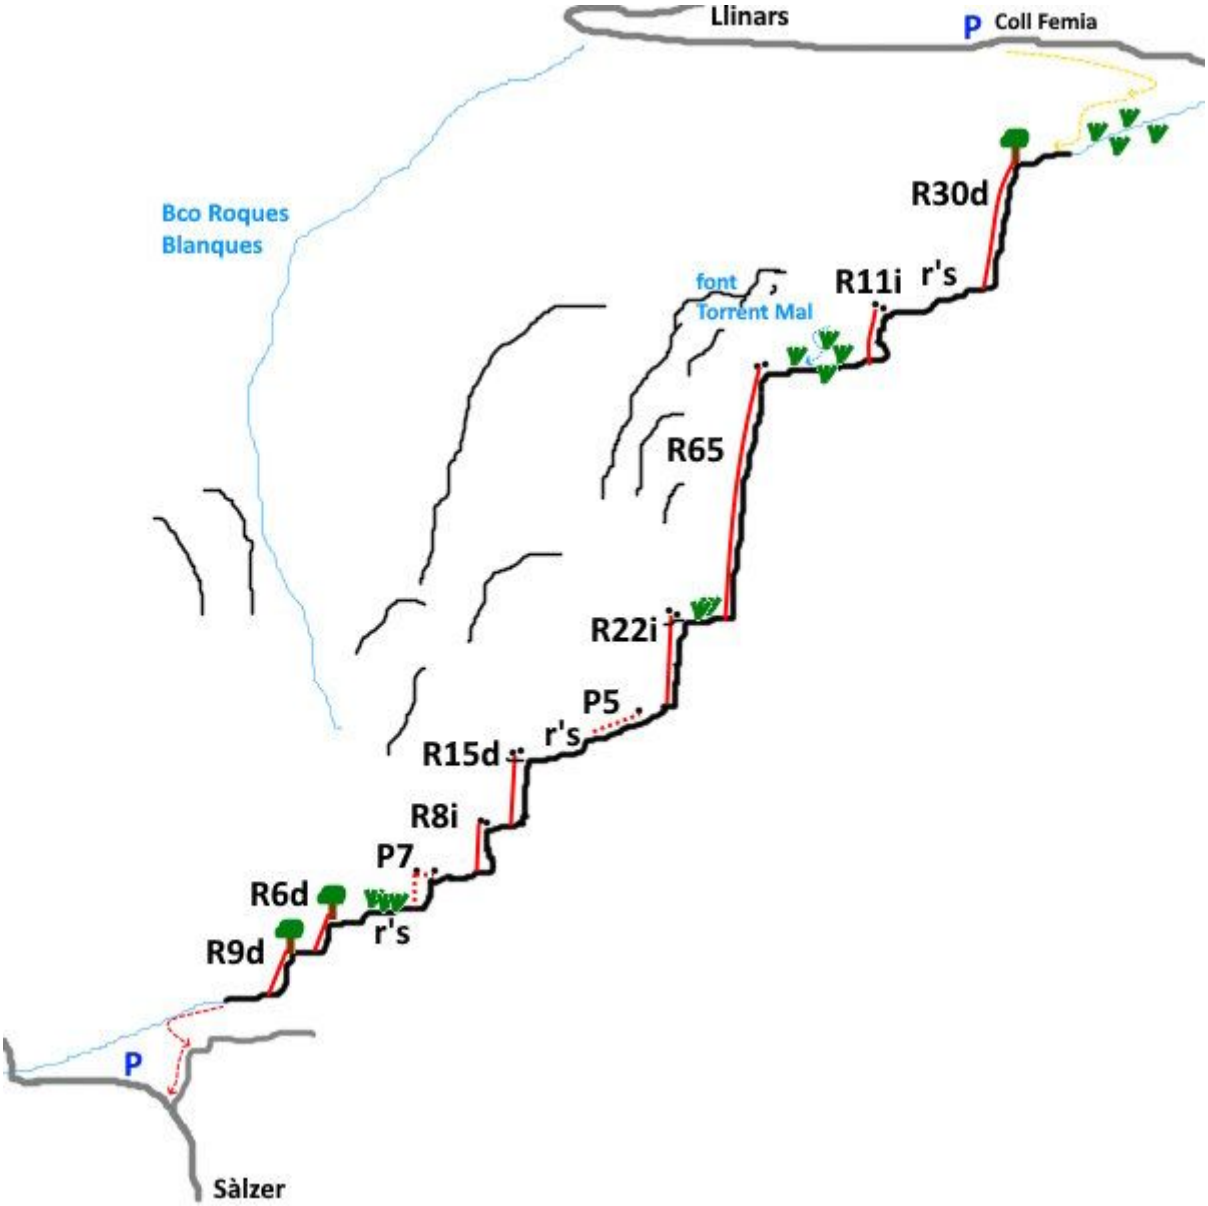

Tour: (machine translated)
See topo
A couple of rappels in the Pla de Guàrdies to reach the source of Torrent del Mal, here we cross a small path and we find the vertical. We will continue the rest with more modest rappels.

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we go left to take the remains of a trail that leads down to the main trail where we parked.
