Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
A nice vertical and two other rappels in its main version and 3 small rappels in the tributary that is pure collectionism. If we catch it with water, after heavy rains, we will enjoy its R30.
Private property. Be discreet and prudent, the owner kindly authorizes the descent.

Hydrology:
No

Access: (machine translated)
On the N260 between Boltaña and Ainsa at km. 442.8 over the bridge, turn to Arcusa and Barcabo on the A-2205.
Or from Ainsa, just across the bridge the A-2205 to Guaso and Barcabo.
In both cases we will pass Guaso and continue south towards Barcabo for 7kms until the detour to the left to Santa María de Buil and Sarratillo.
How to get to Santa María de Buil
Along this small road we will go 700m, just after passing the sharp right curve, one more left and another right over our ravine with a pool on our left and a place to park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Direct for the main access, for the tributary we follow the road for about 200m and then go right to take the riverbed of the tributary.
Private property. Be discreet and prudent, the owner kindly authorizes the descent.

Tour: (machine translated) r4 + R7 + R30 + R13 + r3 + R14.
After the rappel (R13), there is a path to the right. Do not follow it (it goes to a private property). We will descend the next ledge (r3) and finish with a rappel (R14) from this ledge. Continue along the riverbed until you reach a field on the right, see return.

Return: (machine translated)
After the confluence of both descents we have a path on the right, we could go around the crop field we have and go directly to the road or continue along the track that leads to the road.
