Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as La Fuente canyon, it is a dry canyon, except after rains and short. With 5 rappels in which to practice and the last, the Deer, a beautiful vertical 30m. If we want to extend the day we can continue it with the via ferrata that we have just at the end of the canyon.
We will probably have to ask permission at the hostel to make the descent.

Access: (machine translated)
We will have to arrive at Casas Nuevas for it, by the RM15 we will turn off in Mula and we will go to Pliego, or from the A7 in Alhama de Murcia the same to Pliego. In the center of the town we take the detour to Casas Nuevas by the RM-C5.
After 12km we arrive at this small village of Sierra Espuña, we cross it towards Sierra Espuña and the hostel of Casas Nuevas, there we will park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will follow the track towards the ferrata and after 500m at the fork we will turn right to go up the track through the forest for another kilometer. In a gentle right turn we will see a path on our left that goes down to the ravine. If we pass it, after 200m we reach a dam where we can also go down to the riverbed.

Tour: (machine translated)
Almost all verticals have 2 installations and handrails so that we can choose which side to go down and we can practice.

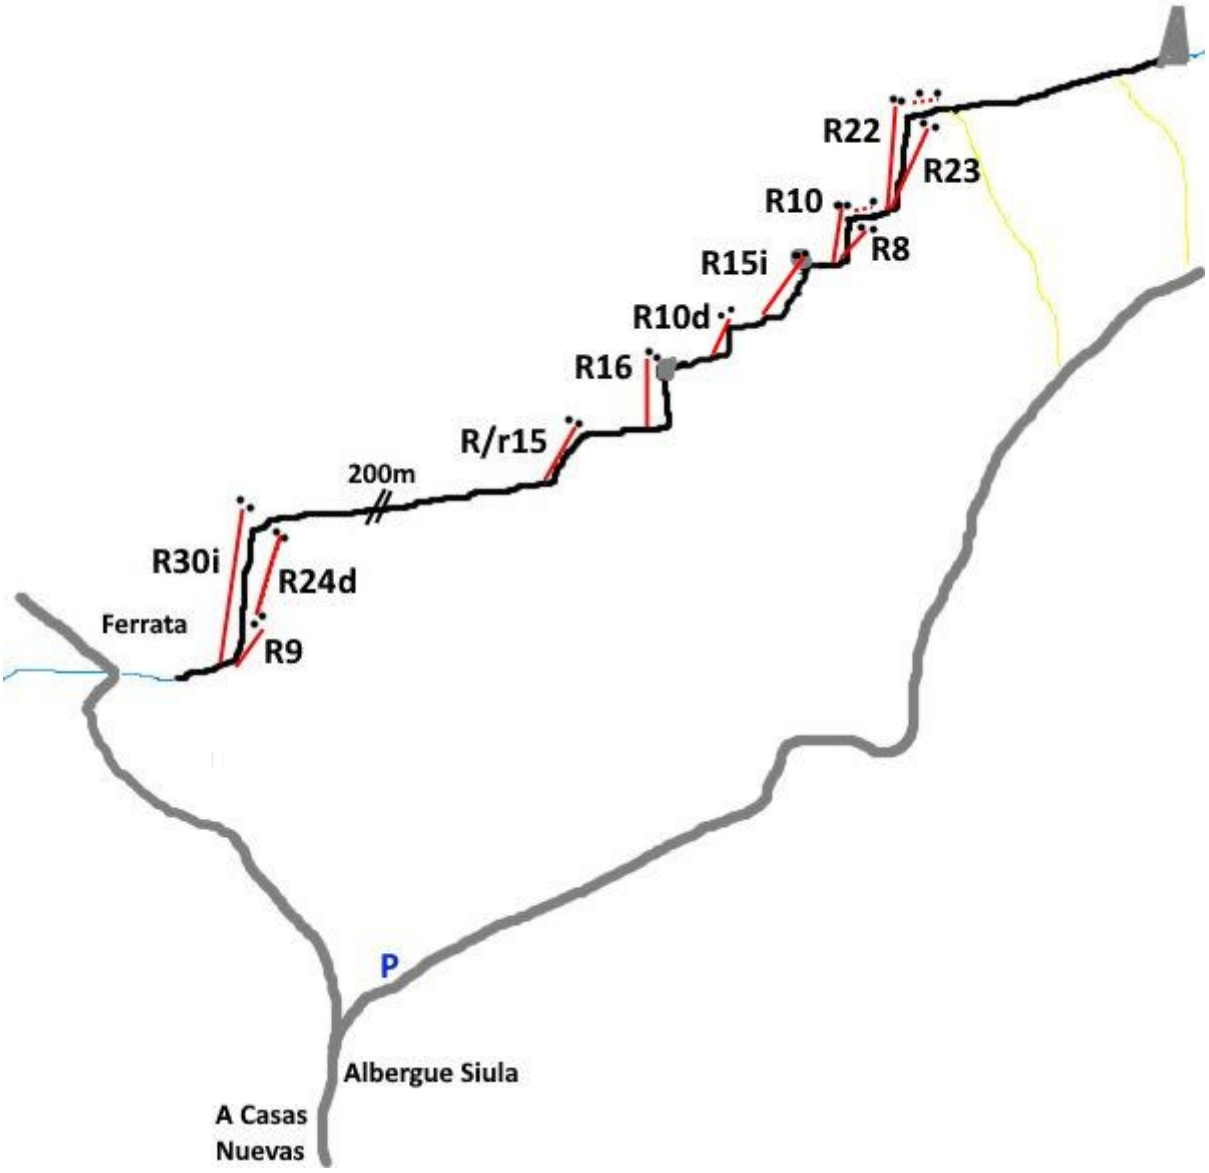

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we have the ferrata and the track. We take the track to the left towards the lodge.
