Summary: (machine translated)
Dry and very interesting ravine in the proximity of Alicante in the middle of the Fontcalent mountain range. Restricted on Sundays and holidays from 8:00 to 13:00 from October 12 to December 21 for hunting activities.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Possible because it is not too boxy but because it is so vertical it would be difficult to continue.

Access: (machine translated)
On the A31 freeway we take exit 230 and go to La Alcoraya, we leave the Cueva Santana turnoff to the right and continue about 600m more, just before the left curve we have a track on the right, we get in and it puts us next to the Sierra de Fontcalent. 100m later there is a curve to the left, we park here.

Approach: (machine translated)
After 20m from the curve there is a track to the right that we will take and continue for about a kilometer to an excavation where we turn off onto a small path to the right, the path goes up to the top without reaching it. Just before arriving we will look to our right to see some cairns that mark the beginning of the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
7 rappels, first short ones to reach the wall where we found the R38.

Return: (machine translated)
We will arrive at the end of the ravine and continue to the access road.

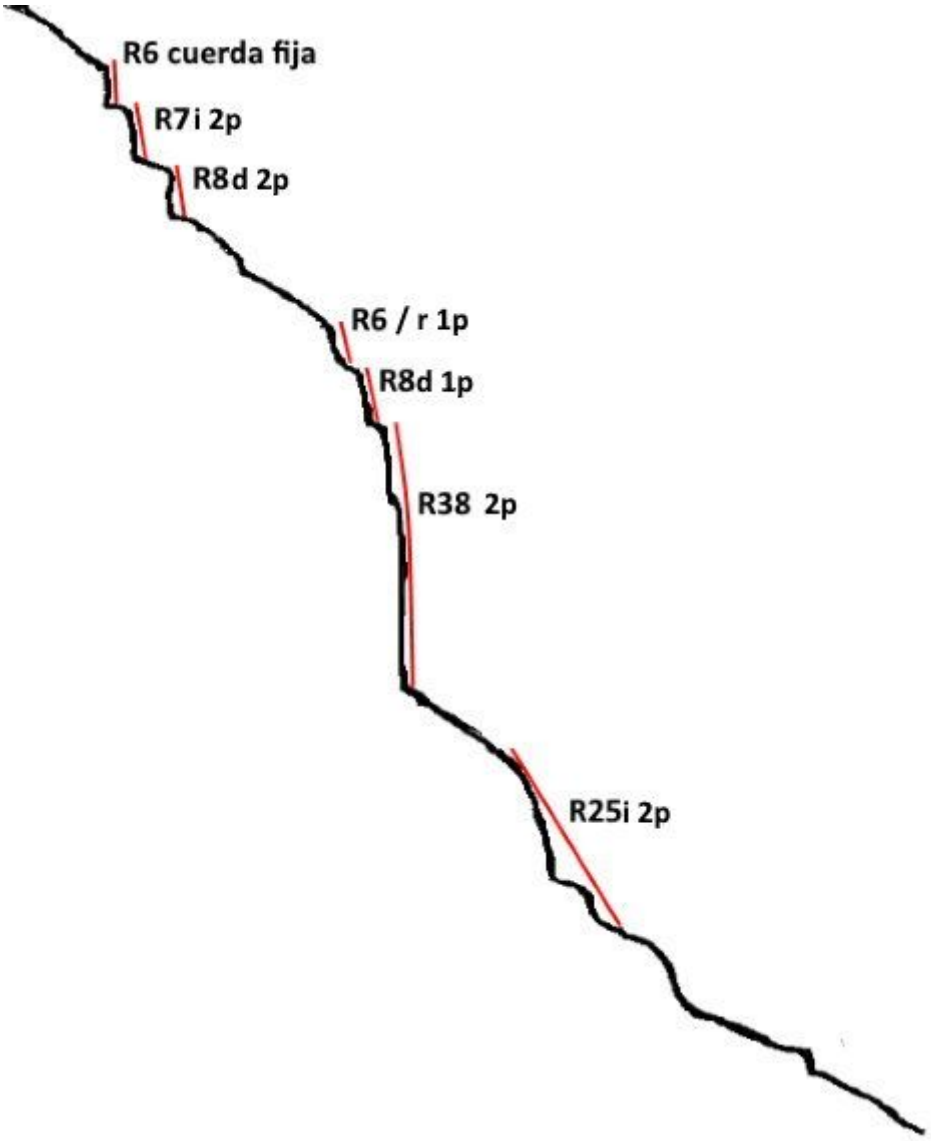

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 38.3489 -0.5987
