Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Very long canyon in its development, with two parts separated by a bridge, open, with leaks in almost any part and only 4 rappels, 2 in the upper part and 2 in the lower part.
It is a canyon to be done with flow, without it there is not much sense in the climb. It is a good option if the rest of the area has too much water.
Necessary combination of cars if we want to save the 6 kms of road between both points.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Throughout most of the route

Access: (machine translated)
On the NA178 from Lumbier and Domeño, just 1km before reaching Navascués there is a bridge over the river and before crossing it there are signs to the Foz de Benasa on the right. We get in and leave the car to return.
With the access car we continue to Navascués and here we turn off to Burgui, we will go along this road for 4.5 kms until just before the bridge that crosses it. We have place to park on our left

Approach:
Inmediato
