Summary: (machine translated)
"Feeder" to the Alcanadre/Peonera superiore, to shorten the boring "run-up", which, moreover, in midsummer, takes place in a dry streambed.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We go from Rodellar on HU-341 south in the direction of Bierge. After 7.1 km, the road to San Saturnino turns off to the right (signposted). We take this small road and after 600 m we turn left onto a dirt road, which we follow for about 500 m until we reach a clearing where the dirt road branches. We stay on the left and now park the (upper) car in a suitable place.

Approach: (machine translated)
Continue along the track, then take the next forest path to the left, cross the streambed and keep right for about 100 m down into the ditch of the Hondo, cf: \n * Guía de descenso de cañones y barrancos. Sierra de Guara. Eduardo Gómez - Laura Tejero, 2002, page 79
* Canyonisme - La Sierra de Guara. Randonnées, Randonnées acuatiques. Patrick Gimat, 2005 , page 110

Tour: (machine translated)
First in an open channel, then a smaller gorge with at least 1 rappel before you reach the Alcanadre.

Return: (machine translated)
You usually go downstream in the Alcanadre (Peonera superiore), but you can also go upstream and get off after San Saturnino
