The initial part of the stream is used by guides as an easy route. The last waterfall (75 m), which can be easily reached from below by climbing up the path from Trifterstraße - Trifterweg, not only runs along the stream, but is also equipped with anchors on the right orographic bank, which protrude completely out of the water every 15-20 meters or so and are used by guides to rappel guests who are not at risk of falling.

Hydraulic structure: Inlet above the last waterfall.
