Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Almost a collector's ravine, long, hard and demanding access, followed by an equally demanding, technical and, when it carries water, very sporty descent. To be done in spring with thaw to ensure flow.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Yes before 8th rappel

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in the Valley of Ansó very close to Zuriza.
From Pamplona on the A21 towards Jaca until Berdún where we turn left onto the A1602 to Ansó.
From Jaca by the N240 to Puente de la Reina where we turn right towards Hecho on the A176. Just at the entrance of Hecho we have the detour to the left to Ansó.
Just at the traffic circle at the entrance to Ansó we have the detour to the Zuriza Valley, we will go through here until almost Zuriza campsite. Past the p.k. 9 we have the bridge over the river and soon the Borda Chiquin on the right. Here we will park

Approach: (machine translated)
We retrace our steps and cross the river and take the path that leads to Zuriza by the orographic left. After 500m we turn right and soon we will take the remains of a path that climbs uphill.
We will have the option to climb up to the hill or follow the path that crosses the ravine and climbs up to above the cliffs. From here we must continue over the cliffs to the gully of our ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
Demanding, tough and technical

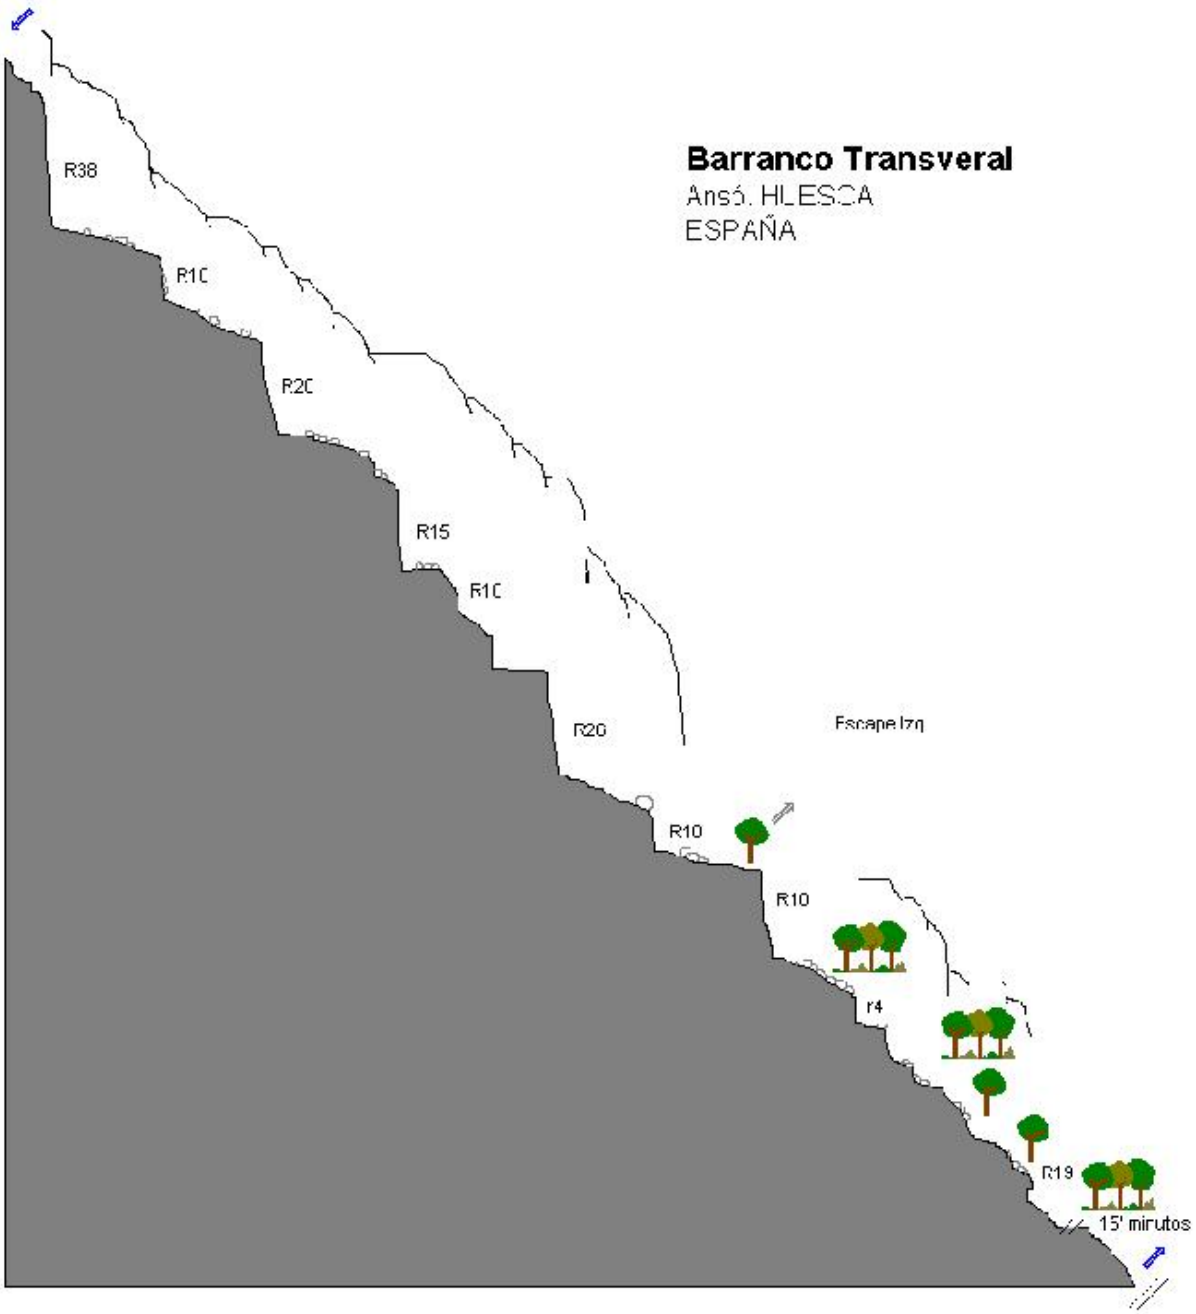

Return: (machine translated)
We will follow the riverbed to the river, cross it and take the road downstream.
