Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Two activities in one, we will go up the Riglos ferrata, the Mirador de los Buitres, and the subsequent descent by the rappels of the N channel. Two sections of rappels, with the second one quite exposed and with some difficulty at the head of the rappels.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Yes, except in the chimney (the last 4 rappels).

Access: (machine translated)
We must get to Murillo de Gállego, next to Riglos and its famous Mallos. From Puente de la Reina or from Huesca on the A132.
Three kilometers before reaching Murillo we have the detour to Riglos. We will go up towards Riglos and shortly before arriving we get to the right to the cemetery where we will park. Otherwise we can park in the parking lots at the entrance of Riglos.
Another option is to take a car up to the Mirador de los Buitres by the track.

Approach: (machine translated)
We follow the marks and signs that show us the way to the ferrata, a magnificent track heading SE with the Peñas de San Justo and de los Buitres in the background. We will arrive at a sign that tells us to leave the track to take a path that takes us under the rocks, we will pass under the mallo El Tornillo and we stay at the foot of San Justo, here we turn left and find the first pegs.
We will make the via ferrata and at the end of it we continue towards the sign of the path down the north face, just here we have some yellow marks, the beginning of the rappels.

Tour: (machine translated)
A first section of rappels to finally exit with some ropes to the trail and soon after another sign, blue marks and the next section of rappels, more exposed and complicated.

Return: (machine translated)
Somewhat losing trail that takes us to the return path of the ferrata and from here to the GR1 back along the access road.
