Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Simple canyon perfect for beginners, full of jumps, slides, 3 rappels and quick and easy access and returns.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
It is very open, we can escape in several places and in the middle of the ravine we have the bridge of the first trail.

Access: (machine translated)
We must head towards San Sebastian de Garabandal, for this we will go to Puentenansa by the CA181 or CA182 and here we will turn towards Tudanca and Piedrasluengas CA281, until we reach Cosio.
Once in Cosio turn right to San Sebastian de Garabandal on the CA860. Almost arriving at the village there is a detour to the right in a very sharp curve, we get in here and a little further on, in another sharp curve we leave the exit car.
If we have two cars, with the other we can continue until almost the entrance (it is a 10min walk).

Approach: (machine translated)
From the bend we go up two sharp bends and leave a first detour to the right, a few meters ahead we find a bend to the left and a path that takes us down to the river on the right. This is the way in.

Tour: (machine translated)
Short but very fun descent for inexperienced people, with an 18-meter rappel. Attention: the riverbed is quite slippery!

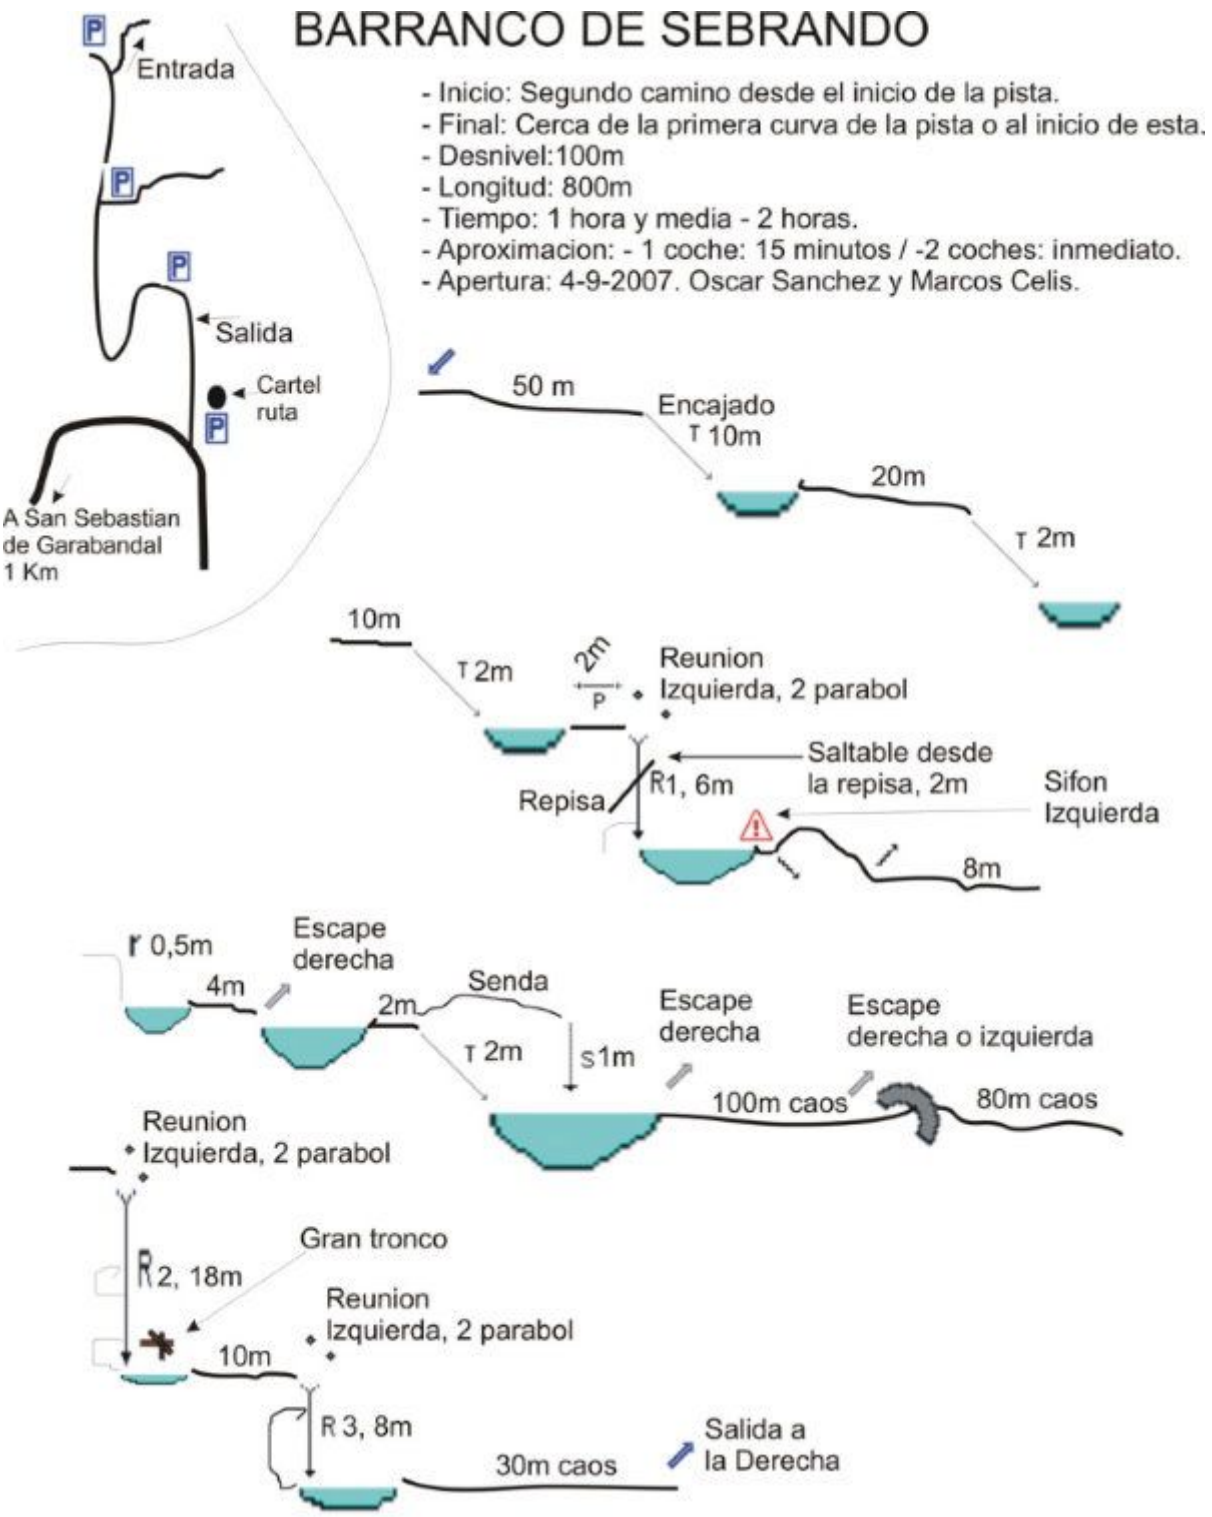

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel, a path to the right leads up to the track next to the car.
