Summary: (machine translated)
Named Milagros de Navidad, hard access with climbs up to the Jijona or Migjorn rock that will give us a peculiar descent through a dry torrent. At all times follow the red marks

Hydrology: (machine translated)
To be verified, but after the first rappels, they are very possible.

Access: (machine translated)
Getting to Jijona
We leave by the CV810 towards Tibi, in the p.k. 3.5 we have a track on the left, already under the rock, we will get in and park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We take the track on the left that leads us to the dry riverbed and start to climb it following the red marks and milestones, we will be right under the rock and we can imagine the line of descent from here. We will turn to the right, climbing areas and climbing cables and staples, to take a watercourse that leaves us almost on the ridge where we join the PR that climbs to the peak. Once on the peak we continue southward along the markings and soon we reach the first rappel.

Tour:
Ver topo

Return: (machine translated)
Evidently, we retrace the path of access
