Summary: (machine translated)
Interesting subsidiary torrent on the right of the Ogassa stream. Multitude of rappels of all types, from natural to reach the stream, where the descent becomes more aquatic. Better to do it after rains
There are several colleagues who have told us that if we are going to park at the Alberge El Negre we should ask for permission, respect that it is a rest area and that we should spend money to compensate for the inconvenience.
You know! ;)

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Yes, several

Access: (machine translated)
From Ripoll to Sant Joan de les Abadesses on the N260, at pk 111.5 past the restaurant Rama, we have two left-right curves on the stream and a track on the left that climbs to the Serra de Sant Amand.
We will go up this track for more than 6kms until the detour of "el Negre", we will take it and we will go down there to leave the return car.
With the access car we will return to the track and we will follow it for a kilometer and a half towards the pass of La Tuta, before arriving we will pass by our torrent, just in a right curve before going around Puigcercó.

Approach: (machine translated)
Immediate with two cars. With one car we will have to go up to the track following the same path as with the access car.

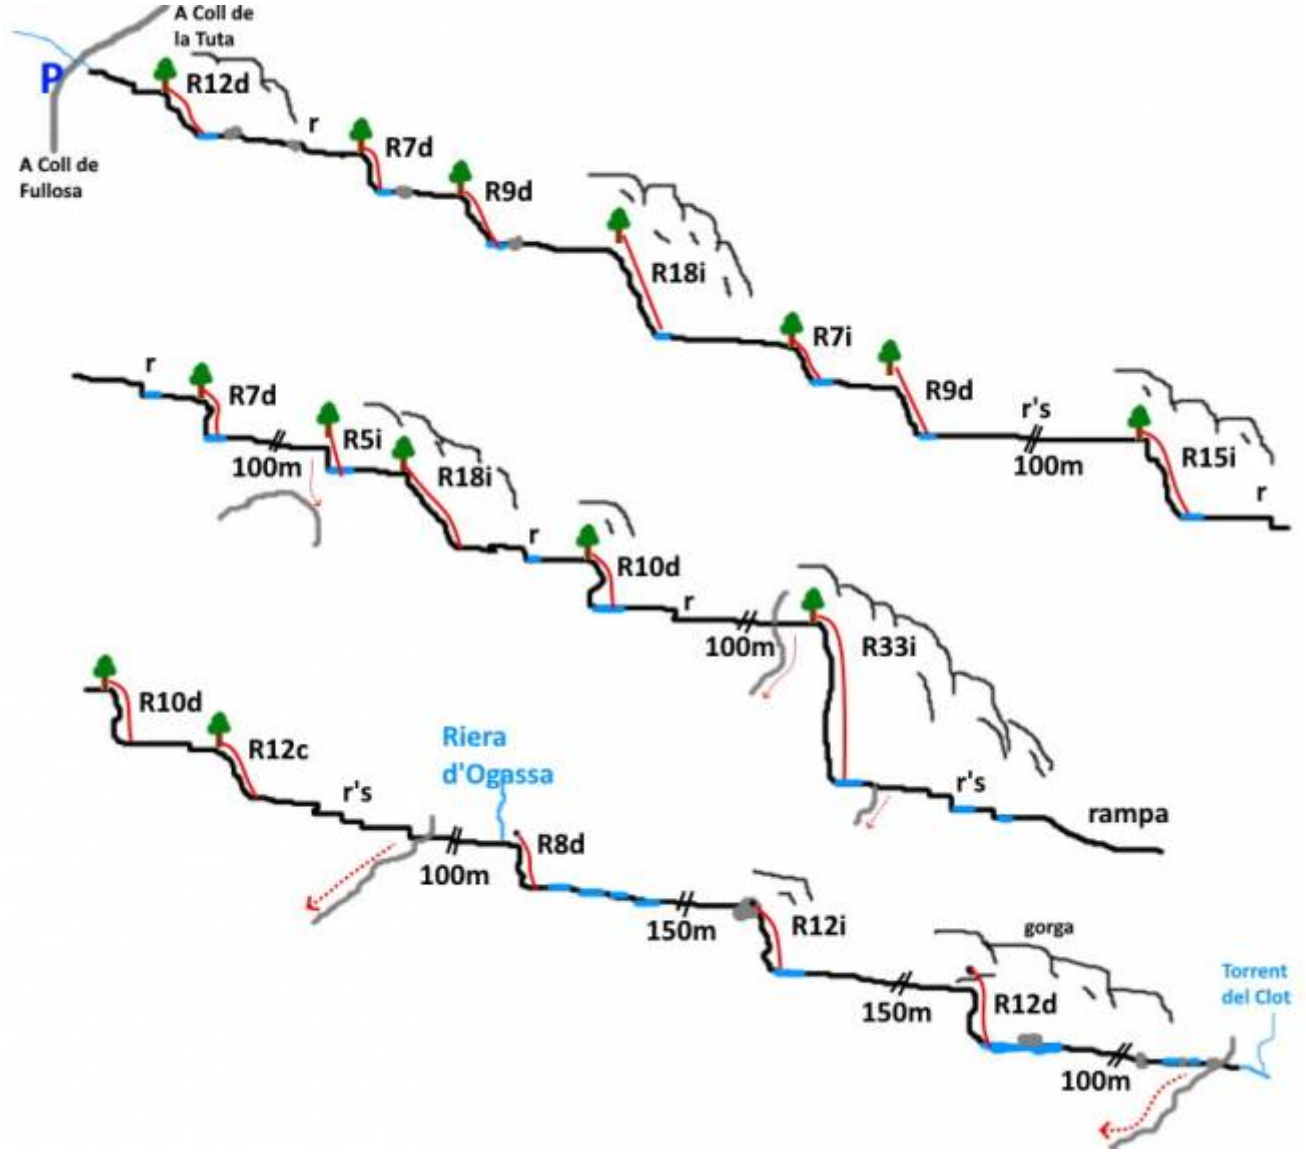

Tour: (machine translated)
A first part of short rappels before the track, from here it closes a little to save this small cirque with a rappel of more than 30m, we will continue with a couple of more rappels before reaching the Riera d'Ogassa where we will have the last 3 rappels (almost an hour more of descent).

Return: (machine translated)
We can leave before the stream by the track on the right, in 10min we will be in the Negre.
After the gorga and before the Torrent del Clot we have a path that climbs us to the Negre.
