Summary: (machine translated)
Short but not unattractive rappel canyon; can be "taken along" as you pass by

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Coming from the north (Andorra, Seu d'Urgell) or south (Lleida) on the C14, turn off at Coll de Nargo onto the L511 towards Tremp. After 19.5 km you reach Coll de Boixols. A good kilometer further (downhill), the road crosses the headwaters of the Riu Rialb in a sharp left turn. Next to the bridge is an old house. About 100 meters before reaching this bridge, we turn right onto a dirt road ('Sallent, Els Prats'). A few hundred meters further on, the track forks; we turn left, towards Els Prats. The track climbs slightly along the slope and finally crosses a stream. Here, on the right, you can already see the final cascade of the Aubaga Negre. Here there is also space for the car.

Approach: (machine translated)
From the car, always (inside) along the edge of the forest, later turning east to the stream above its notch.

Tour: (machine translated)
3 small rappels, increasing beautifully formed gorge, possible jumps

Return: (machine translated)
Before the bridge right out to the car
