Specialities:
Gear: Ropes: 2x30m
Summary: (machine translated) Friendly rappel canyon with interesting rock formations and quite long but nice access. Not always water bearing.
Hydrology:
Access: (machine translated) From the MA11 turn off to Soller, then follow the signs to Biniaraix. Just above the church begins the trail through the 'Barranc de Biniaraix' near an old washhouse. Modest parking for max. 3 cars.
Approach: (machine translated) Ascend via the one old, but perfectly restored pilgrimage path through the gorge-like valley. After a small estate, the path approaches the gorge exit - here you can check the (hopefully existing) water level. Continue along the marked trail, which climbs in hairpin bends up the northern slope of the canyon. Where the path meets the stream again is the entry.
Tour: (machine translated) See photos and videos Be careful at rappel points R7 & R8 - At the tuff cone it is better to rappel orographic right.
Return: (machine translated) From the last basin cross back to the ascent path and via this back to the parking lot.

Automatisch importiert von Descente-Canyon.com für Canyon Biniaraix On the way up there was no water, everything dries up right after the end of the canyon. But in the canyon there was a good amount of flowing, cold water, all the pools are full. On the way down we saw that the lower waterfalls next to the trail are bolted as well. On access, the stream was completely dry and the water seeped away just after the end of the gorge. There was a good jet of water in the gorge and all the pools were full of very cold water. At times there was also a decent wind whistling through the canyon, today it was a cold trip. Otherwise it was a beautiful, rewarding abseil gorge with great rock formations. The lower drop off next to the hiking trail also seems to have been drilled. An option to make the long way back nicer. (machine translated)
