Summary: (machine translated)
Spectacular canyon carved between walls. Much better to do it after rains

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Difficult and hard to get out of the gorge

Access: (machine translated)
We have to go to Orbiso to leave the return car and to San Vicente de Arana if we have two cars with the access car. We will take the A-132 to Santa Cruz de Campezo. From here we will take the A-2128 to San Vicente and park at the hermitage of the virgin of Uralde and the A-4161 to Orbiso.

Approach: (machine translated)
If we park at the hermitage of the virgin of Uralde we can take the path that goes along the left bank of the river until it reaches the area encajonda and enter the river.
We can also take the track that goes south up the mountain to the hill and turn left and go down to the Foz.
From Orbiso we go up the track to Valcocino and continue to the hill that on the left we have Oteo and on the right the descent to the Foz.

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple and very aesthetic descent to be made after rains

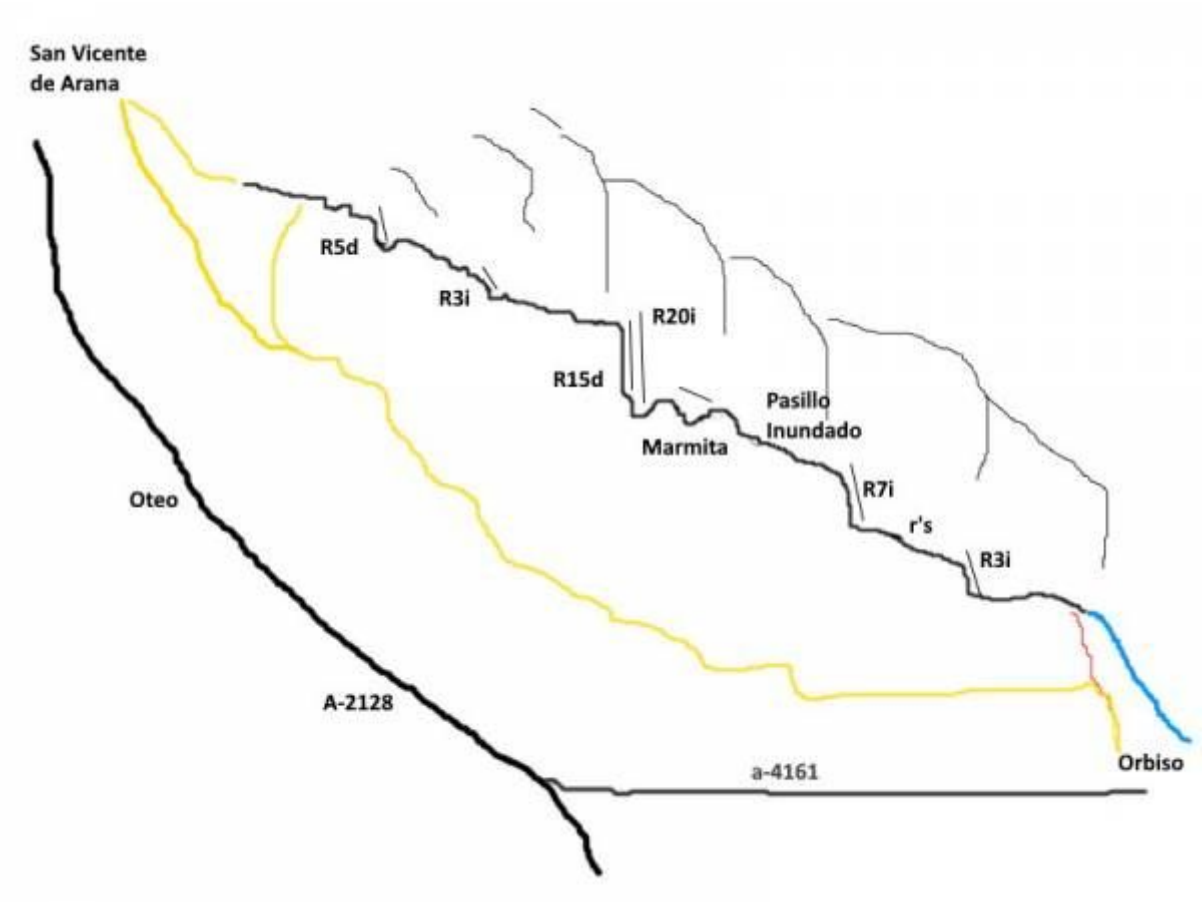

Return: (machine translated)
We go out to the trail on the right until Orbiso
