Summary: (machine translated)
The "Rio Verdugo canyon" has it all, walking and swimming progression, rappel, jumps and natural slides. 3 rappels that with abundant water can present problems and above all the possibility of alternatives in the compromised points to be able to continue further on. A must.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
The entire route

Access: (machine translated)
We must go to Ponte Caldelas. Once there we take the Avecil detour. We continue along the road for about 3kms (the asphalt at times leaves much to be desired). We will arrive at a sharp bend to the right with a stone hut on the left half demolished and a place to park.
Here is the water channel to access.

Approach: (machine translated)
We follow the water channel to the beginning of the descent.

Tour: (machine translated)
Short canyon, with three rappels, a multitude of jumps and several slides. Almost all the points of commitment have the possibility of going around them out of the riverbed. It is also possible to escape to the slope by simple climbs.

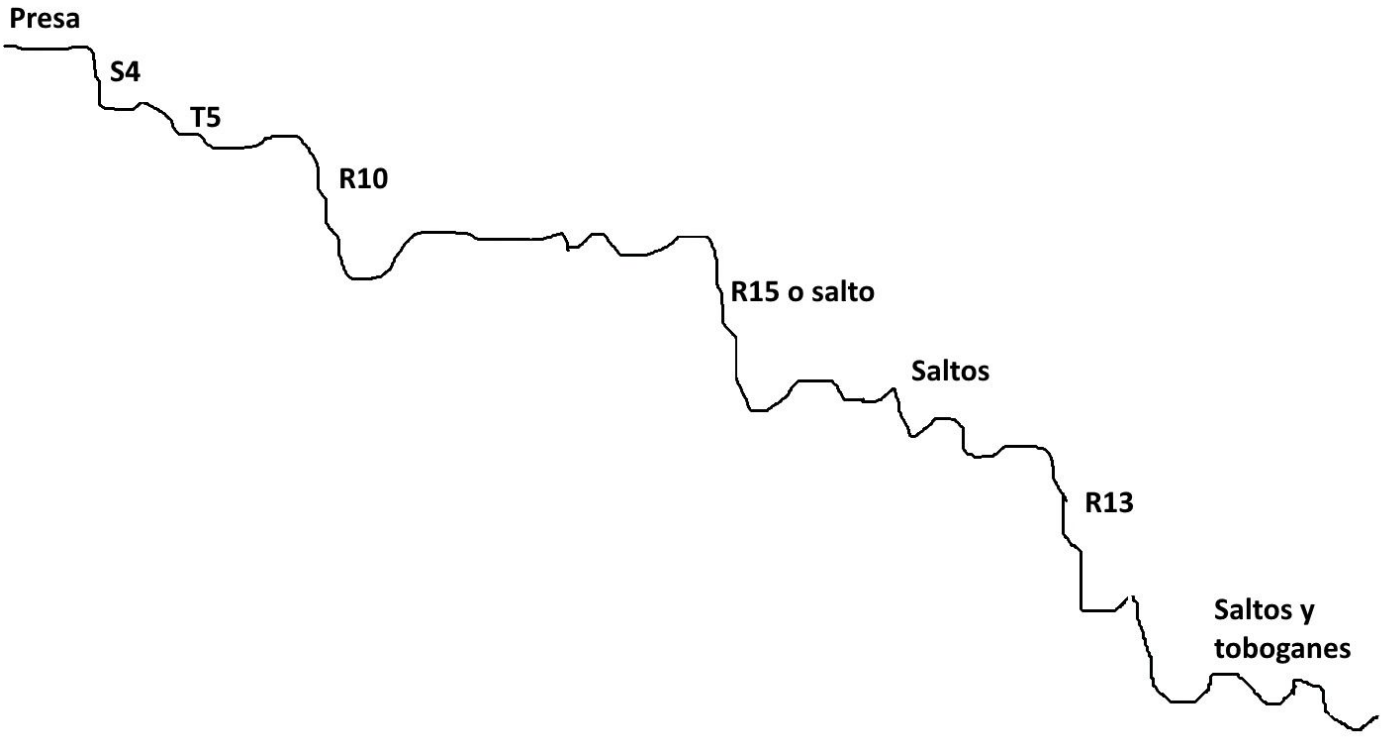

Return: (machine translated)
When we reach the hydroelectric plant, we turn right and walk along the track to the curve where we left the car.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 42.3785 -8.5285
