Resumen: (traducción alternativa)

Counts among the most beautiful granite gorges in Portugal; clean water; deep pools; several possible jumps; large boulders; lower part open; some thorn bushes at the access; orientation for Rio Poio inferiore not always easy; beautiful mountain landscape; at the exit Ca. 1h walking and climbing in the streambed to the exit; entire canyon very challenging and only possible with little water flow, as Rio Poio superiore is very incised + 2 siphons; C60 divisible (30+30m); Poio Superiore v5,a4,III

Acceso: (traducción alternativa)

From the parking lot at approx. 430m, follow the path left of the road to the pipeline, which is already visible on the approach. Be careful not to take the path along the ridge here, but always climb along the pipeline (some thorn bushes). A little further up you will come to a fence. Follow the path, which is still clearly visible at the beginning, slightly uphill. Gradually, the path/trail becomes less and less recognizable. Cross the slope with little difference in altitude until you reach a ridge. Here you descend briefly (old wooden paths). Continue along the path until you reach a beautiful rocky viewpoint at approx. 550m. From the viewpoint, descend again along the rock face until the 60m waterfall becomes visible. You can choose to enter above or below the waterfall. (To enter above, look for a suitable path above the rock fence waterfall.) The last meters to the lower entry are downclimbed or rappelled on a small step at approx. 500m, 10m (bolts available).

Recorrido: (traducción alternativa)

Regreso: (traducción alternativa)

Follow the steep slope straight up to the road/parking lot.
