Resumen: (traducción alternativa) The Edelbach is a karstic rappel and hiking canyon, often visited by avalanches, and is mainly fed by the Stabsee lake and a cave. In terms of water, you have to pass through the stream a few times, where you can expect to find niches and holes. The two large narrow sections (middle and end) are compulsory and have no emergency exit. There are few slides and no jumps. Avalanche wood and rock chaos have to be downclimbed. In terms of ropes, only a lowered structure and possibly rope traverses were necessary. The emergency exits are all steep and grassy. Avalanche debris remains in the stream until midsummer. An interesting combination of cave and stream is now possible. The abseil station is approx. 5m orographically to the right below the cave entrance. The cave, which always carries water, is approx. 60m long with a small waterfall. (Do not forget your Hirabira (headlamp))
Hidrología:
Acceso: (traducción alternativa) Tirol-Lechtal-Elmen. In Elmen, park at the parking lot for the Stabalm, leave the main road at Elmen in the Lechtal valley and drive to the huge parking lot in front of the waterfall.
Acceso: (traducción alternativa) Follow the steep hiking trail up to the Stabalm and straight ahead on the road to the entry. If you want to enter the cave, you have to descend at the gravel patch to a small fir tree with a square block (approx. 10-15m before the first drop. The branches cover the anchor.
Recorrido: (traducción alternativa) Level: At the first belaystation, the Edelbächlein stream on the left may only splash weakly over the rocky outcrop. Note: If the first narrow section is just fine, then it is better to get out at the next emergency exit. If necessary, set up the rope traverses to the abseil stands yourself.
Regreso: (traducción alternativa) Back to the parking lot in 200m
Coordenadas: Inicio del Cañón 47.3410 10.5526 Final del Cañón 47.3417 10.5485

We were unsure about the water level, at the first stand you couldn't really see whether the water was going over a rocky outcrop or not (traducción alternativa)
